U. S., Britain, France Condemn Red Czech Rule

ASSAILED AS DICTATORSHIP "IN DISGUISE"

Power Seized Through Instigated Crisis, Three Nations Declare.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—The United States, Britain and France today jointly condemned as a "disguised dictatorship" of Communists the new government set up in Czechoslovakia.

In a declaration issued at the state department here the three governments also said the Communists seized power through "a crisis artificially and deliberately instigated."

With an apparent reference to earlier Communist power grabs, such as in Hungary, the three western powers charged that the crisis served as a cover for "the use of certain methods already tested in other places."

As a result, the statement said, Czechoslovakia has suffered "the suspension of the free exercise of parliamentary institutions and the establishment of a disguised dictatorship of a single party."

Red Control Complete In Czechoslovakia

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, Feb. 26 — Czechoslovakia is completely under Communist control today and the way is clear for transforming the republic, modelled at birth after the United States, into a copy of Soviet Russia.

The pattern for the minority parties will be to purge their ranks of all persons who have fallen into Communist disfavor. Communist sympathizers now are in control of those parties.

The weapon is ready—the charge of conspiracy against the government by "agents of reaction." This was provided by Communist Premier Klement Gottwald himself. Now in complete control of the press and propaganda outlets, the Communists have all means at their disposal to drive home this campaign.

The nation fell under complete Communist domination last night. The Communist party, largest at the last election but still a minority in the parliament, has achieved a cabinet made up of its members and trusted sympathizers. Only a semblance of the old seven-party coalition is preserved.

Question of Recognition

(In London the British foreign office said Britain must now consider the question of recognition of the new Czechoslovak government. A foreign office spokesman said the Communists forced the government upon Czechoslovakia by using "undemocratic means." Britain has been consulting with the United States and France on the matter.)

Police Halt Student March

Columns of Czech students attempted to march to Hrdcany palace last night to see President Eduard Benes, who capitulated yesterday to Communist demands after holding out for almost a week. Police arrested 50 of them.

Criticism of the government has disappeared from the Czechoslovak press, which, up to Monday night, had been carrying outspoken comment on the nation's political crisis.

Efforts to reach President Benes for an interview have been unavailing.

Using the threat of a Communist-led general strike, Gottwald finally forced Benes last night to approve the new Communist government. The president accepted resignations of 14 anti-Communist ministers, 12 of whom had quit a week ago to protest Communist moves toward controlling the security forces of the nation.

Bloodless Revolution

In six days of bloodless revolution the Communist party had pressed its demands and won. It controlled the cabinet. It gave orders through the police and action committees" to the whole country. It had crushed—for the

Smith Opposes Marshall Plan

Steel Co. Executive Joins Marionite in Blast Before House Committee.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith appeared before the house foreign affairs committee yesterday and went on record as opposing the Marshall plan of aid to Europe. Also appearing before the committee the same day was Ernest T. Weir of Pittsburgh, chairman of the National Steel Corp. Both declared that the European Recovery plan would bankrupt the United States and asserted the program is foredoomed to failure a Press association dispatch from Washington reported today.

Representative Smith, who, one dispatch pointed out is a doctor back in Marion, O., "applied his stethoscope to the Marshall plan and came up with this diagnosis":

"Europe is afflicted with a deep seated and pernicious malady caused by the virus of socialism and no amount of blood transfusions, such as would be provided by the Marshall plan, can possibly have the least effect in killing that contagium."

Gives a Prescription

Smith, a Republican, then gave the house foreign affairs committee his prescription: dump the European aid program.

"If this measure goes through," Rep. Smith said, "Let no one be surprised if the ultimate cost reaches thirty billion, or fifty billion, or one hundred billion dollars, assuming the nation can stand that much before it goes completely bankrupt."

The administration has estimated the four-year cost at around $17,000,000,000.

Mr. Weir said the program would threaten depression.

Mr. Truman and Secretary of States George C. Marshall, Mr. Weir said, have assumed "infallibility" in urging congress to approve ERP without major changes.

"I believe that congress and the people as a whole should act in this matter as hard-headed, sensible Americans and not as an unthinking mob that can be shifted in a body from one position to another by the winds of administration propaganda," Mr. Weir said.

Opposes Steel Increase

Weir indicated he did not favor the steel price increases that are being scrutinized by the FBI, the dispatch stated. Asked about the $5 to $7 a ton increases announced by major producers, he replied: "National has made no price increases and contemplates none." "That should speak for itself.

He made the statement to newsmen as he went before the house foreign affairs committee to express his disapproval of the European recovery program.

"These steel price increases have been completely misrepresented," he said. "They were not made by the industry but only by some companies."

His attack on ERP, along with that made yesterday by Henry A. Wallace, gave the program its roughest days of buffeting since congressional hearings opened.

IN CZECH UPHEAVAL. Communists maneuvered swing of governmental power to their party by forcing change in leadership of the Social Democratic party, which has installed Zdenek Fierlinger, former ambassador to Russia, as party chairman. Fierlinger had been ousted by the party in November when he insisted members continue in alliance with Reds.

Bucyrus Girl Better After Brain Operation

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26—Nancy Wiles, 11, of Bucyrus, was recovering today after an operation to relieve pressure on her brain resulting from a blow by a baseball bat two weeks ago.

Surgeons at Children's hospital removed a portion of her skull and inserted a metal plate. Officials said she was in fair condition and had spent a good night after yesterday's operation.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiles, had been confined to bed by dizziness since the accident at the Norton school. Her skull was fractured.

Red Cross Plays Major Role In Assisting Disaster Victims

The following is one of a series of articles describing the services of the American Red Cross which will launch its nationwide 1948 fund campaign March 1. A goal of $75,000,000 has been set for the nation and Marion county's quota is $25,935. Of the quota to be raised in Marion city and county $14,100, or 54 per cent, will remain here and $11,580 will be forwarded to national headquarters.

The most destructive series of major disasters in history struck the United States during 1947, according to the American Red Cross, which allocated upwards of $10,000,000 to assist more than 300,000 persons. In terms of costs, 1947 was the peak year in Red Cross disaster work for the last decade.

While Marion has been fortunate, in that there has been no major disaster in this county, it is comforting to know that there is a local disaster division of the Red Cross, should the need for such an organization ever arise. The local chapter assisted in two family disasters which occurred in Marion during the past year, according to records in the chapter office.

Both families suffered the loss of all household furnishings and clothing, when their dwellings were destroyed by fire. Through the efforts of the disaster committee and the local chapter, food, clothing and household equipment was supplied these families.

List of Nation's Disasters

Disasters, which struck 46 states and Alaska, included 142 fires, 50 floods, 41 tornadoes, three hurricanes, 22 other storms, 24 explosions, minor earthquakes, transportation wrecks and other serious accidents.

Grimmest toll in casualties and property losses, and highest Red Cross relief expenditures occurred after five major disasters:

The worst tornadoes in 10 years in Texas and Oklahoma last April; The Texas City explosions and fire in mid-April, claiming 500 lives and inflicting more than 3,500 injuries; June floods in seven midwestern and eastern states; the severe Florida-Gulf states hurricane in September, followed by prolonged floods; the devastating New England forest fires in October.

In all of its disaster relief operations during 1947, the Red Cross had the cooperation of the U. S. weather bureau, the armed services, local, state and federal

Ohio Taft Campaign Opening Set in Cleveland Saturday

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—A vigorous drive by backers of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) for the presidency opens in his home state this weekend.

The kickoff in the Ohio campaign will be at the annual dinner Saturday night of the Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) Republican organization.

Rep. George Bender, county chairman, predicts a sellout crowd of 1,600 in the Rainbow room of the Carter hotel. Taft will be the only speaker.

Bender said Taft will also make a half dozen other appearances in and around Cleveland over the weekend. These will include talks to Negro and young Republican groups.

With the May 4 delegate primary in Ohio less than 10 weeks away, Taft has five other speaking engagements on his schedule.

Two are on a return trip to Cleveland—on May 1 and May 2. He will talk in Middletown and Springfield March 20.

Toledo Talk Later

The senator told a reporter today he has "no other definite engagements" for speaking appearances in the state, except a Toledo talk some time in April."

He will be in Columbus, however, March 8, for what he termed a "general meeting" with people working on his campaign, and plans short visits to Cincinnati, his home, March 21 and April 3.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Taft's pre-convention campaign manager, said that Sen. John Bricker (R-Ohio) has promised he will take the stump for Taft, along with other Republicans in the house.

Brown said he, himself, expects to make a couple of campaign speeches.

Taft forces in the state are not only out to put up a good showing for Taft. They also have the avowed intention of putting in his place Harold E. Stassen, who boldly entered the state primary. Friends of Taft have termed Stassen's entry into the Buckeye campaign a mistake.

Taft Advice Ignored

Taft, himself, said in St. Paul on his recent western swing he had attempted to "persuade" Stassen at a friendly meeting that his entrance into the Ohio primary "was against his own interest and that of the Republican party."

Taft promised the Ohio fight against Stassen would be "conducted on an entirely courteous basis," but, he added, "by May 4 I think he will find that my advice was good."

Stassen is seeking delegates in 11 of Ohio's 22 districts. He is scheduled to speak to the Cleveland City club a week before Taft talks to that group on May 1.

Stassen's Washington office said his speaking schedule here lists no other Ohio appearances.

OHIO CHURCHES BACK ERP

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26—The Ohio Council of Churches today urged immediate passage of the Marshall Plan for European relief.

Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the council, called upon Ohio clergymen to campaign for the plan in accordance with a resolution adopted unanimously at the recent state convention. The resolution called for acceptance of the Marshall Plan without reduction of funds.

FEWER STRIKES UNDER NEW LAW, TAFT SAYS

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Sen Robert A. Taft, (R) of Ohio, today made a six-months check of the labor law he helped write, and said it was working "toward peace" in the nation's industrial life.

Sen. Taft, who is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, wrote in the current issue of Collier's Magazine that the labor-management relations act of 1947 has failed to bear out the "dire predictions" its opponents had forecast for the American worker.

"I think it is fair to say," he wrote, "that nearly all of the amendments made to existing labor laws by the new act have worked satisfactorily to promote justice between employers and employes and between labor union leaders and their members. At the same time, greater protection has been given the public, and the number of strikes has decreased."

Fears that the Taft-Hartley law would "wreck labor" have not been borne out, Sen. Taft asserted. He said he had received countless letters and many personal assurances from union members 'that they approve the law because it protects them against the arbitrary actions and orders of those who control the unions."

He said a study committee created to watch the operations of the new labor law could find no reason at this time 'for recommending amendments to the 1948 session" of congress.

He staunchly defended the law's provisions outlawing secondary boycotts in labor disputes "as perhaps the most carefully drawn of any of its porvisions."

'Perhaps," he concluded, "the best proof of the act's effectiveness is in the infrequency of such disputes in the news today."

The senator said the issue of the closed shop—banned by the new law—" is a question of principle on which I, at least, would not be willing to compromise."

"If . . . the closed shop continues to expand to cover most of American labor, it would be a serious detriment to the freedom of the American people," he said. "A man no longer could start work in that particular occupation to which he was best suited unless some labor union was willing to admit him into the charmed circle."

He gave this advice to unions whose officers refuse to sign anti-Communist affidavits under the law:

"Get rid of such officers. That is exactly what has happened already in a few cases."

He said he could not go along with public feeling that strikes should be outlawed. That, he said, would call for so much government regulation that it would endanger our free economy.

17 Rail Brotherhoods To Ask 40-Hour Week

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—A demand for 48 hours pay for 40 hours work will be a major request when the 17 non-operating brotherhoods begin their spring contract negotiations with the carriers.

Railroad workers have worked the 48-hour week for years. The decision to seek a reduced work week at no less pay was reached here last night at a meeting of union representatives.

No final demands were framed for a general wage increase or other changes in the current contract. The union spokesmen will meet here again March 15 to decide those issues.

One union official said the final demands, in addition to a reduced work week, may include a cost-of-living pay boost. They will be served on the railroads about April 1.

The two-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Sipe of 280 Midian avenue, died in a city bus this morning while his mother was taking him to her family physician.

The baby, Clarence Bovey Sipe Jr., had not been well since birth, the physician stated. Last night his parents had been up all night with him. They had taken him to the physician yesterday.

Mrs. Sipe noticed the baby became quiet when she arrived downtown on the bus and discovered he had died. She got off the bus and called the police from the E. E. Williams' auction house on Mill street at 8:44 a. m.

Gilead, by Rev. Kenneth Marsh. Burial will be in Quakerdom cemetery. The body was to be removed from the Carl mortuary in Cardington to the Sipe home where friends may call tonight, Friday, and Saturday forenoon.

4 KILLED IN CRASH OF B-29

8 Parachute to Safety Before Burning Bomber Plunges in Texas.

By The Associated Press

MERIDIAN, Tex., Feb. 26—Four members of a 12-man crew were killed in the crash of a B-29 bomber near here last night.

The eight other crew members, including Col. Alan D. Clark of Ft. Worth, Tex., 7th Bombardment Wing commander, parachuted through the rain and fog to safety.

One of a flight of 20 B-29's bound for the west coast, the bomber crashed in flames shortly after taking off from Carswell Air Base at Fort Worth, Tex. Clark was commander of the flight.

Names of the four victims, who were found in or near the scene of the wreckage, have not been released.

Besides Clark, the men who bailed out were 1st Lt. Frank H. Riggs, Orange, Tex.; 1st Lt. Frank M. Worley, Ft. Worth; Capt. William S. Kern, Pasadena, Calif.; Staff Sgt. D. W. Aslin, Ft. Worth; Staff Sgt. William W. Weaver, Falmouth, Ky.; Capt. Julian F. Moffat, Barksdale, Miss.; and Lt. Col. Harry E. Goldsworth, Spokane, Wash.

"We were flying on instruments at 10,000 feet in a heavy rain and fog," Clark said.

He said the plane was burning as it fell.

The crash occurred near the farm home of Orus Solberg.

Five hours after the bomber crashed near Solberg's home it was still burning.

The bombers were on a routine training flight to the west coast via San Antonio and El Paso, Capt. William S. Waltman, Eighth Air Force public relations officer, said in Ft. Worth.

HOMER B. YOUNG

NO WITNESSES ARE CALLED ON DEFENSE SIDE

Trial for Gerbes Slaying Is Brief; Young Confession Ruled Out.

BULLETIN

Edwin D. Young was found guilty of first degree murder shortly before 3 p. m. The jury recommended mercy, making life imprisonment in the penitentiary mandatory. Under the law he will be eligible for parole after 20 years.

The jury deliberated two hours and 10 minutes, reporting at 2:55 p. m. It filed into the courtroom and the signed verdict was handed to Judge Smith. Reading of the verdict was delayed until 3 p. m. while Court Stenographer Robert Hedges was called from his office. Then Judge Smith instructed Court Clerk Calvin Oborn to read the verdict. A. L. Thomasson was foreman of the jury.

The case of Edwin D. Young, who went on trial Tuesday morning on a charge of first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Zora Gerbes, was given to the jury at 11:20 this morning.

Paul D. Mishel, attorney for Young, rested his case without calling a witness.

The jury heard only the oral testimony given by witnesses for the state and had been in the courtroom to hear testimony less than three hours since the trial opened.

The jury spent the remainder of the time in the jury chambers as Michel and Prosecutor James E. Reed argued a motion on the admission of Young's confession into evidence and awaited ruling of the court on the motion.

Motions Overruled

Judge Paul D. Smith overruled motions by defense counsel for a directed verdict in favor of the defendant and for withdrawal from consideration by the jury the charges of first and second degree murder.

His ruling was given as the trial went into the closing session this morning. Motions were made by Mr. Michel after the state rested its case Wednesday afternoon.

Michel said the state had failed to prove first degree murder in that premeditation had not been proved beyond a reasonable doubt. Nor had second degree murder been proven because of failure to establish malice or purpose on the part of Young.

Judge Explains Charge

Before the prosecutor addressed the jury in summing the case for the state this morning, Judge Smith reviewed the various charges the jury could consider in the light of the evidence presented. These were first degree murder, second degree murder and manslaughter, he said, explaining the allegations each charge implies and which must be proved by the state beyond a reasonable doubt.

Prosecutor Reed, in a summation which took but 10 minutes, reviewed briefly the testimony of his witnesses whose testimony he felt the jury would agree was creditable, and had proved the allegations under the charge of first degree murder.

Defense Argument

Summation for the defense took considerably longer, as Mr. Michel addressed the jury for 40 minutes. He stated that the outcome of the trial depended on getting a jury that was sincere and honest and who would decide the case on evidence produced in the courtroom.

Although he did not place Young on the stand again after yesterday's testimony concerning the confession, Michel declared it was never the intent of Young to deny that he killed Zora Gerbes. His client, he said, entered a plea of not guilty because he felt he was not guilty of first degree murder.

The only thing Young complained about, Michel said, was the publicity given the case in The Marion Star and in a Columbus tabloid.

Michel questioned the testimony of Frank Ward, witness for the state who told of an interview he had with Young at the Marion county jail, when he was called to the stand yesterday afternoon.

Michel also mentioned the testimony given by Clyde Hardin, member of the local police force, concerning remarks made by Young in his presence. Although pointing out that he was in no way questioning the integrity of Patrolman Hardin, he wondered how Hardin was able to recall details of that conversation

GALION P.-T.A. HEARS "FREEDOM FORMULA"

Special to The Star

GALION—Carroll Lewis, D. D., superintendent of White Cross hospital, Columbus, brought an inspirational message on "Formula for Freedom," when he was speaker, Tuesday for the Founders' Day program of the Parent-Teachers Association at Senior High school auditorium.

The formula is based upon the Scripture, "Ye Shall Know the Truth, and the Truth Shall Make Ye Free," the speaker maintained. With the Army during the war, and having spent most of his time in the European war zone, he illustrated the Scripture of his talk by his experiences in concentration camps. Here prisoners were victims of propaganda, and not allowed to know the truth, he said. The United States is the country which the Europeans want, because of our wealth and vast area. "We must maintain our freedom," he stressed throughout his talk. The free men of our United States have the privilege of defending the nation which has the world's greatest wealth—both in freedom and raw materials, the speaker declared.

The program was arranged by Mrs. J. C. Shumaker, principal of the North school. It was opened with the presentation of colors, the pledge of allegiance, singing of the National Anthem, and invocation given by Rev. Norman R. Somerville, pastor of First Methodist church. Selections were sung by the eighth grade choir under the direction of Miss Bowdle; greetings were extended by the P.-T. A. Council president, Mrs. J. C. Mortland; The "Tribute to the Founders" was given by Mrs. Ralph Pollock, past director of the North Central District P.-T. A. This was followed with two numbers by the 7th grade chorus, directed by Miss Bowdle. The speaker was introduced by M. E. Shank, superintendent of schools. Rev. Somerville pronounced benediction.

The program at the high school was preceded by a banquet at Peace Lutheran parish house, in honor of Dr. Lewis. There were 51 present for the dinner, including members of the P.-T. A. council, school principals with their husbands and wives. Remarks were made by Supt. M. E. Shank, Dr. Lewis and Rev. Somerville.

Czechoslovakia Goes Under

CZECHOSLOVAKIA one last little island of democracy in a red sea, now under the Communist tide.

The pattern was depressingly familiar. A Communist minority, loudly asserting its right to control the workers in key positions grew increasingly bold and finally resorted to an open show of armed force. There were the usual cries of "plot against the workers" and sabotage by "tools of American and British imperialists." At no time did the Communists have a majority. Neither did they have majorities in Hungary or Romania. What they lack in numbers they make up in diligence.

President Benes is now no more than a figurehead. The Communists can deal with him in their own good time, just as they dealt with King Michael and Premier Maniu in Romania, Petkov in Bulgaria and Nagy in Hungary. Writing in his memoirs, Benes said only time would tell whether he was right in trusting Russia. Time has given the unpleasant answer.

In Czechoslovakia there is a lesson for the democratic world. Homegrown Communists are a fifth column as certainly as were the followers of Quisling in Norway. They know no loyalty to Moscow. They have no principles except Marxian principles. They should be watched accordingly.

Steel Goes Higher

PUBLIC attention will come to sharp focus Tuesday, March 3 when the joint economic committee of congress asks typical steel producers to explain the recent boost in the price of certain steel products. Steel has become the nation's economic bell-wether. Where it leads, all else follows.

Senator Taft is chairman of the joint economic committee. Several of its members, notably Senators Flanders of Vermont, Ball of Minnesota and O'Mahoney of Wyoming, have spoken out sharply about the price increase. Senator McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has said the increase shows "the futility of trying to solve the problem of spiraling prices on a voluntary basis," indicating national politics as well as the possible effects on inflation is involved.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's council of economic advisers, thinks the increase will have widespread effect. This is the opinion of the Magazine Steel, which predicts a general price rise will follow. Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U.S. Steel Corp., which first announced the increases, says, however, that they should not be understood "as indicating any trend in general steel prices" as far as his company is concerned. His view is the increase merely reflects past cost increases which resulted in certain steel products being sold at a loss.

Charles M. White, president of Republic Steel Corp., takes the same position. He says, "it might be more accurate to say that recent price increases are attempting to compensate for past wage increases which were foisted upon the public behind a smoke screen set up by phony economists and former department of commerce New Dealers. I have publicly declared and still do firmly believe that steel prices are not high enough to assure the industry of firm financial experience in the months and years to come—unless some material reduction in our present costs come about. This certainly is not foreseeable at the present time."

Two elements in the steel situation besides prices probably will be examined by the joint economic committee. One is the relation between the timing of the price-increase announcement and the industry's forthcoming negotiations with United Steel Workers; the union has said it will ask for higher wages. The other is the timing of the announcement itself; some critics think there is circumstancial evidence of some kind of a previous arrangement. The strongest statement on this point has been made by Senator O'Mahoney, who points out that steel companies are able to set the economic pattern for 140,000,000 people.

Whatever the joint economic committee may find out, hope of price stabilization, perhaps even a downward readjustment, has been challenged by the latest development in the steel industry.

First Things First

DR. CHARLES SEYMOUR, president of Yale, doesn't believe education's task for the immediate future is to make college study available to more young people. He disagrees with the college grant proposals of the President's committee on educational needs and says he must improve the quality of education before we try to expand it. He says our efforts should be devoted to the "public schools, where the need for more and better teachers is crying to heaven."

Colleges should be available to all exceptional young people, but the condition of public schools and the quality of teaching deserve priority. The deplorable state of preparation in which some young people reach college is ample evidence of that.

Press-Gallery Boom

By Raymond Moley

THIS piece is not written to discredit Senator Vandenberg as a possible presidential candidate. For I consider it better to take a risk with those who believe him to be the best equipped to receive the Republican nomination.

Vandenberg is a great statesman. He has courage and a great sense of responsibility and has performed with great capacity and devotion. His position in the senate has been well earned.

MOLEY

He may or may not harbor an ambition to be president, although he has repeatedly disclaimed any intention of being a candidate. He also has asserted that there can be no room for doubt where he stands. But there can be no room for doubt where the device connives at it. He is not to blame for the situation described below.

It is of interest to readers of our magazines and newspapers to know something of what is happening in the process through which news and opinion are created in Washington. Although buyers of news deserve to get unadorned information, they do not always get it. They are not well served by writers or commentators who, by innuendo or lack of perspective, promote one candidacy and disparage others.

Signs of "Boom"

Such innuendos and such distortion of emphasis have characterized the outpourings of several people of late in writing about the Michigan senator. There is apparently a small and possibly integrated boom for Vandenberg emerging from an influential group of writers, and this column is written to call attention to it.

The boom takes form in what purports to be authentic inside dope. We are told that Truman's advisers are worried about Vandenberg. They don't want to run against him. They would, it is said, much rather contend with Taft. This, ladies and gentlemen, is a back-handed suggestion to Republicans that they had better nominate Vandenberg.

Another item came to us over the air. It was said that betting in the press gallery was three to five that Vandenberg would be nominated. I have been reliably informed that this was a single bet of 30 cents against 50 cents; and since the alleged news of these odds went to several million people, the 30 cents was well spent.

Day after day and week after week, dabs and dabs of this sort appear and, from what I already know, a great deal more is in store on a more pretentious scale.

Digs at Taft in connection with Vandenberg boosts are common. Stassen and Dewey are occasional victims.

From Biased Sources

Some of this press propaganda comes through contacts with senators who, for one reason or another, have been befriended by Vandenberg and who are miffed at Taft. This is not surprising, since Taft has had to bear more real responsibility in steering legislation and in committee selections than has Vandenberg. But it is the duty of a smart reporter to judge the authenticity of prejudiced opinions.

Another source is in the preference of some reporters for Vandenberg's internationalism and in their opposition to Taft's limits on foreign aid.

Still another source is New Dealers who anticipate Truman's defeat and who hope the new Republican will not be too persistent in clearing out the administration. The opinion of these people — and one of the most persistent propagandists has said this in print—is that Vandenberg is by nature leisurely and not too fond of hard work. Dewey, Taft or Stassen, on the other hand, would very vigorously comb the bureaus if elected.

Vandenberg deserves a fair press, but he has been getting some notices which quite overreach the true nature of news.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

Like a Bad Penny, He Keeps Turning Up

Major General Bennett Meyers has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of income tax evasion.

Meyers? Surely you remember Meyers . . . Blabber-mouth Benny, the bad apple in the air corps strudel.

There were a lot of aviators in the war but Benny was the highest flier of them all.

He reportedly made upwards of $200,000 from a war plant to which, by virtue of his position, he was able to give a lot of government contracts. This was a case of the right hand knowing what the left was doing since both were in Uncle Sam's pocket.

Moreover, in revealing the details of his private life to a senate committee, Kiss-and-Tell Meyers proved something previously thought impossible, namely that he had fewer ethics than scruples.

At any rate, the general has now been indicted for a slight discrepancy in his 1941 income tax returns, he having paid $175.63, when, according to treasury officials, he owed $15,834.

Thus, the general may shortly be back in uniform, although not the same kind as before. You have to list even your ill-gotten gains on Form 1040.

Critics of Canada Uninformed

By Walter Lippmann

THAT excellent newspaper, the Arizona Daily Star, is demanding to know whether Canada should "be placed on a kind of international WPA by the taxpayers of the United States." The editor has just heard "the news" that the Marshall plan contemplates the spending of American money to pay for supplies to be purchased in Canada and shipped to Europe. This, he says, "amounts to notice that, since the people of Canada . . . refuse to assume part of the burden in international reconstruction, we Americans must assume it for them."

After reading that I understood better what the Canadian ambassador, Hume Wrong, meant when he said recently that "Americans and Britons know next to nothing about Canada because they have usually been able to take her for granted without serious consequences to themselves," . . . but that "it is not always pleasant for anyone to be taken usually for granted, for that at times involves failure to consider one's feelings and one's interests."

LIPPMANN

"Because Canada does not often cause trouble, or become a source of dramatic headlines in the newspapers, or adopt policies which are resented in the United States, it may not be an exaggeration to say that the ordinary citizen of the United States knows more of the course of events in such far distant countries as Yugoslavia and Argentina than he knows about what goes on in the territory of his nearest neighbor," he added.

If the editor of an influential American newspaper really believes that Canada refuses to assume part of the burden of international reconstruction, then the Canadian ambassador was not exaggerating our ignorance of what happens in Canada. For the truth is that man for man, family for family, taxpayer for taxpayer, the Canadians have borne a heavier part of the burden of European reconstruction than we have.

A Comparison

Though the Canadian population is only 1/12 as large as the American, though the Canadian national income is only 1/18 as large as ours, the Canadian contribution to European reconstruction is 1/5 as large as ours.

Comparisons are odious. But where [illegible] the record [illegible] anyone in this country to talk down the Canadians. Measured in money, measured in terms of enlightened generosity, measured in terms of their political and diplomatic contribution during the postwar period, the record of the Canadians is something to look up to. They have been, as Mr. Wrong said, "at the head of the line in giving assistance to Europe."

They have done their full share thus far, and there is no question at all of their refusing to continue. The question is solely and simply their ability to continue. To continue what? To continue exporting to Europe wheat and other commodities without receiving in return the goods they themselves need, or American dollars with which to buy goods that can be bought only in the United States.

They have been selling wheat, meat, lumber, metals, to Europe on credit; they have been buying coal, steel, oil, cotton and machinery in the United States for cash. They have now reached the point where they can no longer buy for cash unless they receive cash for a larger part of what they sell.

Since November they have had to prohibit the purchase of a long list of American goods and they have had to cut down travel by Canadians in the United States. For they cannot get that cash by selling directly to the United States, we bought last year from Canada only one billion dollars worth of goods while we were selling to Canada for cash some two billions worth of goods.

It is not easy for Americans in the 20th century to understand a problem like that of Canada. A hundred years ago Americans would have understood it quite easily. No living American has ever had to worry about how the United States was to pay for goods that could only be bought abroad. Americans have worried only about how they could keep foreign goods out of the American market and about how they could sell American goods abroad.

There has never in this century been any question of our being able to pay for commodities like coffee or rubber or wood pulp that we wish to import. We have always had plenty of gold, plenty of gold dollars, and a surplus of exports.

Without a special effort and special study, it is therefore difficult for Americans to realize how countries like Canada and Sweden, which were not ravaged by the war, can find themselves in financial difficulties today. It is not immediately obvious that they are in trouble because they sell to countries which pay them in money—but not in the kind of money that can be used to buy what they need.

To explain it is peculiar difficulty, which contemporary Americans have never encountered, is like explaining why the earth is round to a man who says that it has always been flat where he has been living.

Yet, unless we decide that we shall make ourselves understand their peculiar difficulty, we shall say and do things which wound deeply all the best friends we have on earth. We have never had a better friend than Canada. Yet, because the editor of the Arizona Daily Star has not stopped long enough to study the Canadian exchange problem, he writes about Canada in a language which even the most forbearing of neighbors could not fail to resent.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Feb. 26, 1938.

Marion and vicinity shared in a snowfall that covered most of Ohio and made highways hazardous. Two inches of snow had fallen in Marion and the temperature ranged from 31 to 25 degrees.

Mr. and Mrs. John Koenig of Congress street entertained the Lucky Twelve Bridge club.

Pleasant High school's basketball team won the county tournament title for the second consecutive year by defeating Waldo 33-28 in the championship game. The Pleasant line-up included Holliday, J. Rider, Cowgill, R. Rider and Bender, and the Waldo team included Dutt, Long, Reed, McKenzie, Speece and Klingel.

The auxiliary to Caledonia Post No 401, American Legion, was cited for its membership at the annual mid-winter state conference in Columbus. Attending from Marion county were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Allen, Mrs. Bess Marks, president of the auxiliary to Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, and Mrs. Ines Eikenbary, secretary of the Marion auxiliary. Mrs. Allen was president of the Caledonia post.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sager of Detroit were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sager of Olney avenue.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Feb. 26, 1928.

Czechoslovakia—Who's Next?

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

THE grim developments in Czechoslovakia were plainly foreshadowed, as long ago as last October, by a tense little episode between President Benes and the Communist stooge in the Czech Socialist party, Dr. Fierlinger. The slippery Fierlinger had just made his major effort to deliver the Czech Socialists, bound hand and foot, into Communist keeping. He then tried to see Benes. He was refused admittance, but brushed past the nervous secretaries and guards into the presence of the ailing old man. A violent scene ensued.

Benes told Fierlinger, in plain terms, that he was no better than a traitor to Czechoslovakia. He added that all his own influence, and all the powers of the presidency, would be employed to safeguard the Czech independence which Fierlinger was seeking to undermine. Fierlinger, for once unable to pretend or equivocate, replied with threats. Benes, he said, had best watch his step. "The progressive forces" would have their way, whatever happened. If they were foolishly opposed, they would use force if need be.

Job Is Done

Fierlinger's threats have now been carried out to the letter. This has happened because the Czech Communists were confronted with a situation in which they could not capture the government by constitutional means. After the Benes-Fierlinger episode, the majority of Socialists rejected Fierlinger's leadership. The non-Communist parties achieved a measure of unity. Benes, though old and ill, energetically applied all his vast influence to sustain his country's independence. Nonetheless, transformation of Czechoslovakia into an absolutely obedient satellite remained an essential element in the Kremlin's European strategy.

The Czech Communists had long before acquired the strength needed for a coup d'etat, by infiltrating the army and labor union leadership and taking control of the Czech police.

The existence of a creeping terror in Czechoslovakia was noted in this space last fall, when the present events were also predicted here in detail.

Same As Hungary

Czechoslovakia has gone the way of Hungary. In Hungary, over the last weekend, the Communists were in happy process of crushing the remnants of independence and honor out of Hungarian politics. The most important independent Socialist, Antal Ban, was forced out of the ministry of industry to make way for the equally slimy Hungarian version of Dr. Fierlinger, Deputy Premier Arpad Szakasits. Hints were given by the iron-banded interior minister, Laszlo Rajk, that the one remaining opposition group, the People's Democratic party, would shortly be suppressed despite its loud support for strong Soviet-Hungarian links.

Hungary, Poland and Romania, where the remnants of political independence have also been largely crushed in the same manner, represent intermediate stages between Bulgaria and Yugoslavia on the one hand, and Czechoslovakia on the other. But Hungary and Romania and Poland have already developed very far in the Bulgarian-Yugoslav direction. The same development occurred in Czechoslovakia. Eventually, if the present process is not reversed by western pressure or internal difficulties, all of eastern Europe will be governed by completely totalitarian dictatorships, as absolute, as unscrupulous in their employment of terror and as slavish before the Kremlin, as the dictatorships of Marshal Tito and Georgi Dimitrov. It may be added that much evidence suggests Finland is next on the list after Czechoslovakia.

What is occurring, in short, is the grinding down of all Eastern Europe into a mere disguised province of the Soviet Union, which was also forecast in this space last fall. There is, at present, no counter-influence available to halt this process. The question remains, what does the process mean, in terms of American policy?

Two-Part Answer

The answer to this question is in two parts. First, what is now happening makes nonsense of the widely advocated attempt to secure a European settlement by friendly negotiation with the Soviets. For the Soviets are already using force to make their own settlement in eastern Europe. There is nothing to negotiate.

Second, there is reason to hope that this Soviet settlement in eastern Europe may not endure forever. One of its immediate effects will be to drag the whole of eastern Europe down toward the Soviet level of life. Another effect will be to place an immensely

REPORT RED OUTBREAKS IN CHINA AND KOREA

By The Associated Press

NANKING, Feb. 26 — The mounting fury of Chinese Communist assaults near Mukden was regarded today as probably opening a direct attack on that Manchurian metropolis.

Dispatches from Mukden said the battle for the suburbs of Sinmin, 30 miles west of Mukden, reached a high pitch with government reserve air power thrown into the fight. Sinmin proper fell to the Reds yesterday.

SEOUL, Feb. 26—The U. S. Army reported today five or six Korean civilians and a policeman were killed in a renewal of Communist-inspired agitation against the United Nations. Thirteen Koreans were injured seriously.

Murder Trial Jury Views Crime Scene

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26—Jurors today will look over the neighborhood where eight-year-old Sheila Ann Tuley was stabbed to death if a full panel is named in time.

With eight women and four men already appointed, Judge Samuel H. Silbert said two alternates would be selected before the trial of Harold A. Beach, 23, proceeds.

Beach is charged with first degree murder and has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

COUNTY FARM GROUP HEARS PROF. KAYS

OSU Instructor Speaks at Angus Breeders Meeting.

Prof. Don J. Kays, head of the animal husbandry department of Ohio State university, was the main speaker at the first annual banquet of the Marion County Aberdeen Angus association held last night in the social rooms of the First Evangelical and Reformed church, with 100 members and guests in attendance.

Professor Kays took as his subject "This World of Change." "This world is a world of change regardless of the area in which you live or the occupation in which you are employed. I have served 35 years at Ohio State university and for 28 years have coached the livestock judging team. There has been as much change in livestock and judging as there has been improvement in transportation. The degree in which we can adapt ourselves to the changes around us is the degree to which we will be able to progress and succeed in life," said Professor Kays.

The speaker then gave a comprehensive lecture on the details of livestock judging, and traced the history of changes in judging since his start as a judge in 1911.

Prof. Kays was introduced by toastmaster Lawrence Weiss, County Agent Arthur H. Smith complimented the association for its progress during its first year as an organization and predicted a bright future for the Angus breeders in Marion county.

The Bethlehem Grange quartet composed of Walter Bender, Robert Rice, Oscar Kaelber, and Earl Augenstein sang. Mrs. Robert Rice, pianist, and Oscar Kaelber, trombonist, also presented a medley of duets.

The banquet was served by the women of the church.

Man Who Looked Like Jiggs, Killed in Traffic

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26 — "Jiggs," who looked like the comic strip character died early today the way he said he would—in a traffic accident.

After he was dead, police found out his real name, William Perry, 44. Until then, he was a newsboy who could recite long passages from "The Merchant of Venice" and "Hamlet"; an errand boy for whomever had an errand downtown; the man with the tray of flowers at the corner; the man inside the big peanut barking for the peanut store; and a source of occasionally useful information to police about petty criminals of the shopping district.

This morning, after selling street editions of the Ohio State Journal, he left a box of carnations in a restaurant and said he'd be back for them in 20 minutes. Then he walked, head down as always, into the side of a moving house trailer.

Police still didn't know who he really was or whence he came. He just looked like Jiggs.

Kaiser-Frazer Orders Production Cut-Back

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Feb. 26—The Kaiser-Frazer Corp. announced today an "economy" cutback of operations, including elimination of the night shift at its Willow Run plant and the layoff of 3,200 workers.

The move will mean an "appreciable" lowering of the plant's auto production, now nearing an average of 1,000 units a day, according to a company spokesman.

Edgar F. Kaiser, vice president and general manager, said the cutback resulted from "an economy drive in the face of mounting costs that have forced several auto manufacturers recently to raise prices."

The new one-shift operations are scheduled to start March 5.

time being at least—all effective opposition.

The change was a step toward turning this little republic, modeled at birth after the United States, into a copy of its new idol, Soviet Russia.

The Communists' next goal is to win the coming election and a majority in parliament, where they now have 38 per cent of the seats by themselves and 50 per cent with their allies, the Social Democrats. Strategy in the meantime was to tighten their grip on the country by putting down opposition.

Gottwald gave the cue when, in public rallies, he spoke of the dozen teetering ministers as "agents of foreign reaction." Minister of Justice Alexej Cepicka, newly promoted from minister of internal trade, said, "the forces of reaction will now try to make their comeback."

The election date has not been decided. When it comes, the likelihood seems to be that voters will be given a choice of several tickets but that candidates on those other than the Communist will have to be in the Communist Phrase—"democratic progressive" members.

Meanwhile, the pattern for the other parties was to purge their ranks of men and women fallen into disfavor because of anti-Communist views.

authorities, and hundreds of other organized groups as well as of individuals.

This cooperation included emergency use of armed services' communications; increased use of civilian and military air transport; use of war time Army and Navy installations turned over to the Red Cross by war assets administration to house and feed the homeless; and the use of warming and evacuation facilities of the military.

Red Cross rehabilitation aid includes extended medical-nursing care; rebuilding and repair of homes; provision of needed household furnishings, livestock, tools and equipment for farmers and craftsmen; and reestablishment of small businesses or other gainful occupations for families having insufficient resources to meet disaster-exused needs.

COOLER CLUB HEARS SPEAKER

Foremen Hold "Ladies Night" Program; Denison Professor Entertains.

Anecdotes and impersonations presented by Edward A. Wright of Granville, O., public speaker and entertainer, highlighted the annual "Ladies Night" dinner-meeting of the Universal Cooler Division's Foremen's club in the ballroom of Hotel Harding last night.

Approximately 90 persons, including club members, their wives and guests, attended.

Mr. Wright, who is head of the department of theater arts at Denison university, presented an hour-long program of humorous stories and monologues, many of which were based on his experiences and observations in years of lecturing and entertaining in various parts of the country.

Mr. Wright got his start in the entertainment field at the age of 14, when he was billed as the "Boy Impersonator." He appeared on the Chautauqua circuits for ten years.

Presiding at last night's meeting was John Werbel, president of the Cooler Foremen's club. Mr. Wright was introduced by Carlos Hatcher, advertising and sales promotion manager of the company.

Preceding the program, Ralph Hunt, factory manager, gave the report of the club's executive committee. In a special name-drawing contest for wives of club members, a new hat was won by Mrs. Harold Dickerson.

Before and during the meal, musical entertainment was provided by Miss Goldie Swope of Marion, vocalist and accordionist. She and William Martin, club secretary, led community singing.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Where Does Your Money Go?

Read the other day where country folks and farmers spend more money, proportionately, on their homes than city dwellers do.

Doesn't seem hard to believe when you think it over. Take the folks in our town, for instance. They're home-loving people—who'd rather spend an evening by the fire with a mellow glass of beer than go out in search of entertainment or diversion.

So it's only natural they put more into what means most to them and to their children: their homes. They may not have too much to spend, but it goes for those permanent abiding comforts that make home a nicer place to be.

And from where I sit, that's what gets calls for some of the nicest things home life too—like cider and corn for the kids from time to time and a friendly glass of beer for Mom and Dad ... things that help with what we mean when we say "Home."

At Moscow Parley Hull Urges Death For War Criminals

INSTALLMENT XXVIII

Three foreign ministers met in the Kremlin on the evening ...ber 18 with every appearance of cordiality and cooperation ...ir attendance to business. We quickly agreed on no ...eaking, on the advisers who would sit in with us, on the ...g place and on the first communique to be issued.

...hen I returned to the embassy I found a telegram from the ...partment referring to a message Mr. Churchill had sent the ...ent on Oct. 12 proposing a joint statement by the chiefs of ...ree governments on the ...ment of Germans guilty of ...es. The cable said the ...dent would like me to con... the text of some such state... to be issued at the close ... Moscow conference. It ...ested that, without prejudice ... action we might take ... part of... enders, the warn... could refer specifically to ...nt and future atrocities ... was to avoid driving German ...aders to desperation and in... them to take the same ... as cornered rats in past ...story who had murdered their ...ss victims.

Prior to the first formal meeting scheduled for the afternoon of the 19th I received separate visits at Spaso House (the American Embassy) from Eden and Molotov.

British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, who accompanied Eden (he later became British ambassador to Washington), brought up the desire of the Russians to have military discussions, particularly with reference to the second front. I indicated I would state the United States' determination to prosecute the war to its conclusion and to give full assistance to her allies. We agreed that we should give the Soviet government full information on our plans, the reasons for our decisions and the results obtained, and receive any suggestions they might wish to make. Our thought should be made clear that no military negotiations could be carried on at the conference.

WITH MOLOTOV I first brought up the question of the Russian censorship. American correspondents had not been permitted to send human interest stories concerning the arrival of the American delegation. I asked whether such stories concerning the conference generally, which did not touch upon the official business of the meetings, could not be permitted. Molotov exclaimed over the "stupidity" of the censor, and said he would see to it.

Just before we went to the conference meeting (of Oct. 23), Molotov said he had discussed with Marshal Stalin the proposed confirmation sent me by the President regarding German atrocities. With a few minor changes, Stalin agreed to it.

In the conference discussions we were having on atrocities the Russians took a strong stand. They had suffered severely at the hands of the Germans and they wanted to administer stern, swift justice to the German officials responsible for the wholesale murder of Soviet citizens.

Eden argued that all the legal forms should be observed.

When it came around to me to state my opinion, I said:

"If I had my way, I would take Hitler and Mussolini and Tojo and their arch-accomplices and bring them before a drumhead court martial. And at sunrise on the following day there would occur an historic incident."

As this was translated, Molotov and his entire delegation broke into loud exclamations of approval, and for a minute the calm of the conference was shattered.

THE MAIN POINT I had in mind at Moscow in this connection was to emphasize further that the world had to deal in drastic fashion with a state of affairs wherein powerful dictators had arisen with plans of worldwide conquest, enslavement and vicious methods of barbarism and savagery. I felt that this class of world desperadoes should be summarily dealt with just as they were summarily dealing with the innocent peoples of the world.

I assumed that when we captured the chiefs of the three Axis powers and their ringleaders we would also secure their secret papers and handle this evidence somewhat as we would if we were carrying out the forms of an international law trial. But I did not want this process to disturb the prompt disposition of those bandit chieftains.

I had submitted this view to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and Eden during their visits to the United States. I had also mentioned it a number of times at cabinet meetings. I said bluntly I thought that the instigators of the war, German, Japanese, and Italian, should all be hanged.

As long as I was at the state department, my idea was not definitely rejected. It was changed in favor of a formal trial after I resigned as secretary of state.

I do not want, however, to be understood as being opposed to the Nuremberg trial. I heartily supported that course when it was later decided upon. My thought has only to do with the difference in the form of trial.

AFTER HAVING BEEN in Moscow nearly a week, I remarked to Molotov that I did not know what the protocol was with regard to an audience with Marshal Stalin. I did not know how long to wait or whether I had waited too long out in any event I would be honored if I could see his "boss" and I would leave the matter to Molotov.

Eden had seen Stalin briefly soon after getting to Moscow, but he had made arrangements in advance for the audience. I had made no such arrangements. My theory was that I should do business with Molotov, and not let him think I wished to go over his head to Stalin.

In very short order Molotov informed me that Stalin would see me at the Kremlin at 3 p. m., Oct. 25.

One of the foremost topics of our conversation, I knew, would be the proposed meeting of Roosevelt, Stalin, and Churchill. Considerable difficulties, however, had arisen. Before and after my arrival in Moscow, the President was exchanging cables with Stalin relating to the meeting. The conference was agreed to in principle but an insurmountable obstacle appeared to have arisen over the place of the meeting.

In a cable on Oct. 11 the President suggested Baghdad, capital of Iraq, or Asmara, capital of Italian Eritrea in East Africa now occupied by British troops, or Ankara, capital of Turkey. Stalin had already proposed Tehran. The President suggested Nov. 20 or 25 as the date.

On Oct. 19 Stalin replied that he could not accept any of the places proposed by the President in lieu of Tehran. He said it was not a question of protection which did not worry him, but a question of maintaining close contact with the Soviet army during its present offensive operations. He said his colleagues considered that these operations demanded his personal contact with the High Command. Such contact could be assured at Tehran because of the existence of direct telegraph and telephone connections with Moscow.

THE PRESIDENT SENT ME a long telegram on Oct. 21 saying that Tehran, as he had learned from careful check of the time risk involved and his own constitutional obligations was impossible for him. He meant he could not be in a place so isolated as to prevent his receiving legislation from congress and returning it physically within 10 days. Tehran was difficult of approach by airplane because of high mountains, and planes might have to wait several days before getting in or getting out.

The President said that Stalin had shown no realization of Mr. Roosevelt's obligation in his reply to the President's several messages. He therefore asked me to give Stalin a message from him and explain to him orally the definite and plain reasons for not wanting to go to Tehran, which were not based on personal desire but were fixed constitutionally.

He therefore suggested Basra, Iraq instead. Stalin could run a special telephone wire from Tehran to Basra, which would be controlled by Russians and would still give him direct contact with Moscow.

The President emphasized the fact that he was willing to go all the way from the United States to within 600 miles of Russian territory. He had to carry on a constitutional government more than 150 years old. Were it not for this fact he would gladly go 10 times the distance to meet Stalin. Future generations, he concluded, would look upon it as a tragedy if a few hundred miles caused Stalin, Churchill and himself to fail of meeting.

I WENT OVER ALL these points with Stalin when I sat across a great beige table from him in the Kremlin on the afternoon of Oct. 25. Ambassador Harriman and Charles E. Bohlen were with me, while Molotov and an interpreter flanked Stalin.

As I entered the marshal's large office he entered from another door, met me halfway and shook hands. He was very cordial and affable. He escorted me to my seat at the table, and then sat opposite me, with his back to the wall.

Our conversation began on personal notes. We exchanged views on how to plant wheat. I told Stalin about planting wheat as I had seen done in Tennessee, which seemed something new to him. We discussed rafting. I described how we had bound logs into rafts in Tennessee, using a story which Stalin described. Now he knew why the people had bound rafts together with vines.

I told Stalin of my pleasure at being in Moscow which was in fulfillment of a long-held desire to visit his country. I said I had attended many international conferences in my life, but at none had I received greater hospitality and consideration than we had from our hosts, the Soviet government and particularly Molotov. Stalin replied that he had not expected to hear this comment.

I remarked that one of the most important functions of the present conference was to lay the groundwork for a meeting between himself, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in which all my people and indeed all the peoples of the world who were engaged in the fight against Nazism and Fascism were deeply interested. I then handed Stalin the President's communication concerning the place of meeting.

STALIN, AFTER READING the Russian translation, handed it to Molotov with the remark that it would be necessary to think about it and consult with his colleagues. The foreign commissar, after perusing it, said that important military operations were then in progress and that all the top civil and military officials of the Soviet government were of the unanimous opinion that Stalin should not absent himself at all but in any event only to a place where direct and certain daily communication could be maintained.

Stalin then suggested it might be best to postpone the meeting until spring at which time Eastern banks, Athens would be an appropriate place.

I said that both the President and I felt extremely that the international situation called for this meeting and its failure to occur would cause profound disappointment among all the Allied peoples since its effect would be to unify our three nations in ever increasing cooperation for the prosecution of the war and for collaboration in the postwar period.

Stalin interjected that he was not against the meeting in principle.

I replied that I realized he was thinking merely of the immediate problem, but I was thinking of the long pull. Stalin observed that he was not at all worried on the subject of conflict. He made this remark after Ambassador Harriman said that the heads of state could stay each in his own camp in the hills back of Basra, guarded by troops of his own nationality, and that he assured of complete privacy and protection.

Our conversation having lasted an hour, effectively a half-hour because of the necessity of translation, it became clear that the hour of the conference was approaching. I informed Stalin that, since I was a pupil of Molotov's, it was now time to go to class. The Marshall smiled and wished us luck.

As the conference ended, he rose and came around the table, shook hands, and said something in Russian. His interpreter was still sitting at the table finishing his notes and Stalin's words went out into the air. The latter turned upon the interpreter and spoke sharply to him, saying (Bohlen told me later) that an interpreter's duty was to be always at his elbow. I then learned that Stalin had been expressing his great pleasure in having seen me.

Edwin Young Murder Trial Ends

he was unable to remember the details in a conversation Hardin had with Michel about the same time.

Michel concluded his statement to the jury asking them to return a verdict of manslaughter, "the only verdict you can return in the light of the evidence produced in this courtroom."

Reeds Rebuttal

In rebuttal, Prosecutor Reed promptly challenged the defense's premises for seeking a manslaughter verdict. He declared that nowhere in the testimony was there any evidence to show that the crime was committed "in the heat of passion."

He said further "The defendant had the life of Zora Gerbes in his hands for five minutes as he tightened the noose about her neck but he did not hesitate. He drew it tight until she was dead." This certainly indicates deliberation and purpose, the prosecutor concluded.

As he made his final remarks, he passed the four photos of the body to the attentive jury telling them it was incumbent upon them to sustain the charges of the state in protection of all womanhood.

He finished at 10:30. Judge Smith called for a brief recess before reading the charge to the jury.

Judge Charges Jury

Resuming court ten minutes later Judge Smith charged the jury instructing them on the verdicts they can return and the connotation of the allegations necessary to be proven to sustain each of the various charges.

He told them five verdicts were possible. First, a verdict of guilty to the charge of first degree murder, punishable with death in the electric chair. Second, they could find the defendant guilty of first degree murder but recommend mercy, which would mean life imprisonment in the penitentiary subject to recommendation for parole by the governor after 20 years. Thirdly, a verdict of guilty to second degree murder could be returned, also calling for life imprisonment but with eligibility for parole set at an earlier date. Fourth, a verdict of guilty to the charge of manslaughter could be returned. This verdict calls for a 1-20 year sentence in the penitentiary. Failing these four charges, the jury could lastly return a verdict of not guilty to any of the charges.

Concluding his address to the jury, Judge Smith excused the thirteenth juror, Mrs. Margaret Bowman and the jury retired to begin its deliberations.

The courtroom was packed for the concluding session of the brief trial. Spectators were standing along the sides of the courtroom and eager to return to leave as the jurors retired to consider a verdict.

Returning at 11:20 the jury spent approximately 15 minutes in chambers before leaving for lunch at the Harding Hotel at 11:45.

Yesterday Afternoon Session

The court session ended yesterday immediately after the state presented its last witness and Prosecutor Reed announced he rested his case.

Before adjournment, however, Defense Counsel Michel informed the court he had a series of motions for presentation.

After the jury had been dismissed for the night and the large audience had deserted the courtroom he offered three motions—(1) that the court direct a verdict in favor of the defendant, (2) that the court remove from the jury all consideration of the charge of first degree on the grounds the state had failed to prove malice or premeditation and (3) that the court remove the charge of second degree from the jury on the grounds, purpose or malice had not been proven.

After brief arguments by attorneys Judge Smith announced he would rule on the motions at the session this morning.

The afternoon session opened with Judge Smith's ruling that the confession obtained from Young by Marion officers in Colorado was not admissable as evidence. This ruling was on a motion by defense counsel to keep the confession from the jury.

Overruled by Judge

Judge Smith also overruled a motion by Prosecutor Reed that a delay be granted to give the state time to bring John Hodson, sheriff of Prowers county, Colorado, here to testify regarding the taking of the confession. On the witness stand earlier in the day in the absence of the jury Young had testified that although he made the confession voluntarily he did so after Sheriff Hodson used "threats, promises and coercion" to induce him to confess. This, he said, was before the Marion officers arrived in Colorado.

With the confession ruled out and the way blocked to bring the Colorado sheriff here to refute Young's charge, Prosecutor Reed proceeded to place before the jury the same information contained in the Colorado statement through the testimony of Marion officers to whom Young had related incidents happening before the churchyard slaying.

This effort at first was unsuccessful when Judge Smith upheld objections of Attorney Michel who argued that in talking to the local officers Young still was under the influence of "threats, promises and coercion" of the Colorado sheriff.

Numerous Legal Tilts

The argument over this point was one of numerous "across the table legal tilts" that marked the afternoon session. The jury, held in the jury room for 20 minutes after the beginning of the afternoon session, again was taken from the courtroom while the point was argued. This developed after Prosecutor Reed attempted to obtain testimony from City Patrolman Clyde Hardin and R. M. Wilhelm that Young told them substantially the same story as contained in the Colorado confession.

Hardin was called to testify regarding his conversation with Young while he was being fingerprinted at city police station. When the prosecutor asked what the conversation was about Mr. Michel objected. The judge sustained.

Mr. Wilhelm then was called. He was one of the three Marion officers who went to Colorado to return Young. Although acting as special prosecutor at the time he is not now participating in the trial since he is one of the state's principal witnesses.

Michel Objects Again

A question from Reed about his conversation with Young on the train enroute from Colorado drew another objection from Mr. Michel. The judge again sustained it.

This started a legal debate that resulted in the removal of the jury.

Mr. Wilhelm was recalled to the witness stand with the jury absent.

On questioning by Mr. Reed he testified that while he was riding in the train seat with Young the prisoner talked freely of his previous prison experiences and "what went on the night of the Gerbes murder."

Mr. Reed told Mr. Wilhelm to repeat the story.

Mr. Michel's objection was sustained by Judge Smith.

Mr. Wilhelm left the stand and Sheriff Retterer was called by the prosecutor.

He also told of the trip back from Colorado with Young when questioned by Mr. Reed.

Q—Did you have any conversation with Young on the way back? A—Yes.

Q—Did he tell you the details of this crime? A—Yes.

Q—Without any promises? A—Yes.

Ruling Reversed

Judge Smith then reversed his previous ruling and announced he would permit the state's witnesses to testify regarding their conversations with Young on the way back from Colorado and after arriving here.

This brought a heated objection from Mr. Michel. "If the court permits this testimony there is no reason for ruling out the confession in the first place," he said.

He asked permission to put Young on the stand again. The defendant on direct questioning by Mr. Michel said he would not have talked about the case if it had not been for the Colorado confession.

On cross examination he admitted to Mr. Reed that he had talked to the officers about the case.

Mr. Michel, again arguing before the court, insisted that the conversations, like the confession, went "back to the threats, promises and coercion" in Colorado.

Judge Smith again declared testimony regarding the conversations would be admitted.

The jury was returned at 3:05 p. m., two hours and five minutes after the afternoon session opened.

Patrolman Hardin was recalled to the stand for questioning by Mr. Reed.

A—Did you fingerprint Young? A—Yes, at the police station.

Q—Did you have any conversation with him? A—Yes.

Q—What did he say? (Mr. Michel noted his objection for the record.) A—He said he had been drinking all day and I got mad and killed her.

Cross Examination

3—Last AD YONG . . . —6

Mr. Michel started his cross examination. He asked about details of a conversation between the patrolman and himself (Michel) on the street some time ago and the witness said he couldn't remember the details. The significance of the exchange was not brought out.

Mr. Reed then recalled Mr. Wilhelm, who was asked to tell of his conversation with Young on the train enroute to Marion from Colorado.

Mr. Wilhelm said Young blamed liquor for getting him mixed up with Zora Gerbes in New Philadelphia more than two years ago. He quoted Young as saying he picked the woman up in his coal truck when he found her standing on a street corner.

Mr. Wilhelm continued his testimony, quoting Young as follows:

"On the night this happened I had a date to meet her at a West Center street beer place. We got some beer and went to Delaware. We drank some more there and came back up route 23 to Waldo. Route 98 was right in front of me so I went that way instead of coming into Marion. Up 98 aways I drove into a school yard. (Young had mistaken St. Paul's Lutheran church on route 98 for a school house.")

At this point Mr. Wilhelm interjected a question he had asked Young on the train "about his strange power over women." He said Young answered "I don't know. I almost married another one in Washington."

This brought a quick objection from Mr. Michel who moved that the court withdraw a juror and declare a mistrial.

The motion was overruled and Mr. Wilhelm continued with his testimony regarding Young's account of happenings at the church yard.

He said Young told him they (Young and Mrs. Gerbes) got out of the car and drank the last bottle of beer.

Wilhelm continued, quoting Young: "She told me she was burnt up and I would be too pretty soon. I decided to kill her, so I strangled her."

Mr. Wilhelm then said Young told him the rope was in the car and that the slip knot already was tied because he had been using it to move some things in the car.

The witness wound up his direct testimony with Young's statement about the arrival of the Yeager brothers at the churchyard. He said Young told him the Yeagers instructed him to wait while they called the sheriff but that he got scared and left.

Mr. Michel on cross examination asked Mr. Wilhelm if Young was given beer on the way back from Colorado. The witness answered that Young asked for and was given a bottle of beer on the Erie train shortly before the party arrived in Marion.

Q—All this conversation you have related took place a month ago and you remember it in detail? A—I remember more than that.

Medical Testimony

Medical testimony was given by Dr. E. H. Morgan, county coroner, and Dr. Frederick T. Merchant who conducted an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Gerbes at the Smith Home for Funerals.

Both testified she died of strangulation. Dr. Merchant said at least five minutes would have been required to cause her death.

Dr. Morgan described in detail the manner in which she was trussed up with a clothesline. He said the line was looped tightly around her neck, then passed under her knees and drawn tight until the knees were on her chest. He said there were two bruises on her face. He identified a knotted clothesline as the one cut from the body and articles of clothing taken from the victim.

In the autopsy Dr. Morgan said all organs of the victim had been checked.

There was no cross examination of either physician by Mr. Michel.

Await Witness

At this point a recess was declared to await the arrival from Columbus of Col. Frank Ward, attorney and special writer of crime stories for the Columbus Sunday Star, the New York Daily News and numerous detective magazines.

Mr. Ward was subpoenaed by the state from Columbus where he had returned at noon yesterday after attending the trial Tuesday and Wednesday morning. Mr. Reed wanted his testimony regarding an interview with Young in the Marion county jail.

On the stand he testified he had obtained permission of Mr. Reed and Mr. Michel for the interview and that Mr. Michel was present at the time he talked to Young.

The Ward testimony covered details given by other witnesses concerning the trip to Delaware and the arrival at the churchyard.

There was considerable argument between counsel concerning Mr. Ward's right to refer to his notes of the interview. Judge Smith ruled he could use them to refresh his memory.

Tells of Question

Mr. Ward testified at one point he said to Young, "Now I am going to ask you a question your attorney may not want you to answer.

"Then I asked him how long after the girl was dead was it before he started for the west. He said he waited about 15 minutes then drove to Bucyrus and took route 30 west."

On cross examination Mr. Michel directed Mr. Ward to read from his notes in an effort to show they were so sketchy as to be valueless.

"Isn't it true Young told you nothing about the churchyard," Mr. Michel asked. Without waiting for an answer he demanded to know if Ward had not obtained a copy of the Colorado confession from Prosecutor Reed. Mr. Ward answered that he didn't have a copy but that he had made "copious notes" from the confession.

"Do you mean to sit there and say I would let this client make the damaging statement you have related here," Mr. Michel demanded of Mr. Ward.

"Yes," Mr. Ward answered.

The cross examination over, Mr. Reed introduced as evidence the state's exhibits including a checkered blouse found on Mrs. Gerbes body, a pair of dungarees, white shoes, photographs of the trussed-up body and Young's highly publicized license plates, Q-4846.

The state then rested its case.

Lincoln Quits Another Farm Bureau Position

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26—Murray D. Lincoln stepped out of another Ohio Farm Bureau job today.

Lincoln, who refused reelection as executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation several weeks ago, quit as executive vice president of the Farm Bureau Cooperative association. The association is the wholesaling setup of the big farm cooperative.

As in the previous case, Lincoln said he had to give more time to his work as president of the three Farm Bureau insurance companies.

John W. Sims, general manager of the association, was elected to succeed Lincoln as executive vice president. He continues as general manager. Sims also was elected to succeed Lincoln as executive secretary of the federation.

A Penny for Thoughts And Grandma Has Lots

By The Associated Press

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—When 87-year-old Mrs. Nellie Hozier of Collierville, Tenn., celebrated her birthday in Memphis recently, her family of 16 each presented her with a penny per year—in an unusual way.

As a result, Mother Hozier has pennies by the yard (stuck to a tape), a tree with penny leaves and a corsage and Hawaiian lei made of pennies.

She also has pennies in a piggy bank, in a horn of plenty, in a sack, in a purse and around the bulbs of a pot plant.

But Mother Hozier isn't going to spend them—not right now. She's going to save them for her old age.

Printers Off Job In Philadelphia Shops

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26 — Union printers failed to report for work today in Philadelphia's 23 major commercial printing firms.

Sinclair Muir, president of the AFL International Typographical Union's local 2, refused to call the action by the 900 printers a strike.

He said they merely were "not desirous of continuing their employment under the present low wage scale."

The work stoppage—first here in 27 years—was decided upon last night by a vote of 1,110 to 58, Muir reported.

A union spokesman said the printers are seeking an $85 a week scale at the 28 big shops—as contrasted with a current weekly scale of $69.

Among big shops affected by the strike are the Cuneo Eastern Press, which prints eastern editions of Time and Life magazines, and Chilten Press, which prints many leading trade journals.

Bobby Soxers Name Their Movie Choices

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26 — The Bobby Soxers of America have spoken, or maybe screamed.

Their choices for the most popular actor and actress of 1947, they disclosed today, are Gregory Peck and Rosalind Russell. And their favorite funnyman is Jack Benny.

And listen to this: Peck was selected "because of his intelligence, loyalty to his fans and his acting ability. And Miss Russell because of her "dynamic achievements as an actress, her fervent Americanism and her ability to successfully conduct a career and a home."

Last year the group, comprising some 8,000 teen-agers from all over the country, selected Larry Parks and Olivia De Haviland for the honors.

Vulnerability Called Best Atomic Defense

By The Associated Press

BRISTOL, ENGLAND—Prof. N. F. Mott, president of the British Atomic Scientists Association, told newsmen it would be "futile" for Britain to engage in an atomic weapons race. He said he did not think the United States or Russia would begin an atomic war because "each side must know its capital city will be destroyed in the first day or two."

"That would be bound to act as a deterrent," he added. "Not even the toughest dictator would stand for that."

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

WILKES-BARRE, PA.

How's a fellow keep 'em down on the mine?

That is the big economic problem today in the coal-mining area of the hills of eastern Penn-

There were [illegible] in the [illegible] cities of the beautiful Wyoming valley [illegible] three years ago [illegible] prosperous and [illegible] ing the [illegible] and natural [illegible] of fun stopped [illegible] production and [illegible] 93,259 [illegible]

[illegible] Today [illegible] market [illegible] is dumping [illegible] cheap [illegible] in [illegible] areas.

Today [illegible] don't [illegible] the [illegible] market [illegible] is dumping [illegible] biggest problem [illegible] to get [illegible] operating [illegible] meeting [illegible] of P. W. Barnes, president of the Anthracite Institute.

And the [illegible] of that problem [illegible] are [illegible] of unemployed [illegible], but they won't go down [illegible] the mines. It [illegible] hard, dirty and [illegible] much [illegible] worked.

The [illegible] good.

"A MINER CAN AVERAGE $[illegible] a day," says Harry W. Moore, mining engineer for the Lehigh Valley Coal company. "And a good worker can make $100 a week or more.

"A young man can become a miner after serving only two years as an apprentice laborer and even as a laborer he can get $10 to $12 a day.

"Mining coal takes more skill than most factory jobs. It is a craftsman's job—just as much so as cabinet work."

But employment in the 480-square-mile area where the bulk of the nation's hard coal is produced has dropped from about 150,000 men in 1920 to 79,000. About one-third are actual miners.

"There are operations in this area today that could use 4,000 more miners," said Earnest, "and the anthracite industry as a whole could easily employ 8,000."

Why are $100 a week jobs going begging? Many sons and grandsons of Slav, Welsh and English immigrants who came here to work the mines have a reluctance to work underground. They fear, as one man said, "they'll be old men at 40, broken in health, with their faces and hands blue-pitted from the coal."

MANY WANT TO GET away from their father's trade and become "white collar workers." So they seek lower-paying jobs in factories and offices. But, despite a steady rise in industrial production here, there isn't factory work for all.

To get the reluctant young men down in the mines companies have begun their own training programs—with union approval.

"They are also putting in water sprays as fast as pipe can be obtained," said Earnest, "in order to cut down the dust and reduce the danger of fire and explosion."

Thousands of war veterans are back in the mines, but others have remained idle, deaf to the induce- [illegible] good and improved working conditions underground.

"WE HAVE BETWEEN 10,000 and 12,000 [illegible] in the area who [illegible] need one more. And most of them have already used [illegible] 52-20 payments from the veterans administration."

Now the days of decision are at hand. They must decide to [illegible] mines [illegible] or take [illegible] offered from new jobs from the green [illegible] where coal is dug.

A cubic mile of ocean contains 264 million barrels—an amount of water equal to the total world production of petroleum from the beginning through 1940.

INSTITUTE PROGRAM PLANNED AT MORRAL

Community Event To Be Held March 2, 3 at School.

Plans have been completed for the annual Morral-Grand Prairie Community Institute to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, March 2-3 at the Morral High school.

Speakers for the two-day program will be Mrs. Byron Grimes of Delaware and Asa C. Mattern of Dayton. The Ohio Power Co. will provide a speaker and display a model on hay drying, and Miss Mary Faye McMillan of the Marion county extension office will conduct a session on kitchen planning.

A part of the institute will be a display of farm produce and items in the home economics classes with awards to be made on a point basis. A total of $190 has been allowed for the adult displays and $30 for the institute points awards.

As a climax to the institute, adults of the two communities will present a three-act play entitled, "Foot-Loose." It will be directed by Clyde Forrey. The play has been scheduled for Friday, March 19, due to the basketball tournament at Westerville.

Officers of the institute this year are George Bosley Jr., president, Paul Danner, vice president, Mrs. Louise Prine, secretary, Donald Williams, treasurer, and Mrs. Walter Lyons, hostess.

Committees in charge of arrangements are as follows: Frank Greer, Bud Heller, Delmar Bloch and Paul Danner, advertising; Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Cruikshank, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Starner, Donald Williams and Kenneth Williams, exhibits; Clarence Washburn, Mrs. George Bosley and Mrs. Walter Lyons, community play, and Loren Starner, O. E. Griswold and Daily Bible, nominations.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held at the business session on the afternoon of March 3. Special prizes will be awarded at each session and special numbers will be presented by pupils of Morral and Grand Prairie schools.

Three Arrests Made By State Patrol

Two motorists were arrested by state highway patrolmen Tuesday night.

Charles Huckley, 25, of near Galion, was arrested on route 61 at the intersection of route 42 in Morrow county for failure to obey a stop sign. He was fined $10 and costs by Mayor Roy Bennington of Mt. Gilead.

Charles Redifer, 44, of Cleveland was arrested at 8 p. m. Tuesday night for excessive speed on route 42 in Delaware county. He was fined $10 and costs by Acting Mayor Paul White of Delaware.

Richard Yarnell, 35, of Napoleon, arrested on Feb. 22 for excessive speed on route 23 north of Marion, forfeited a $25 bond in municipal court yesterday morning by failing to appear for a hearing.

Swedish immigrants to the United States in the 1600s originated the use of the log cabin in America.

DEATH FOR SALE. Arabs crowd around a display of guns, ammunition and hand grenades on sale in a shoe store in the Arab section of Jerusalem. Belts of ammunition hang from rafters next to the shoes. Weapons are on sale at cigaret stands, fruit stalls and other shops as they become the standard equipment of almost everyone in the walled city.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

MR. "K.'s" words were like the dash of cold water in my face. I was awake instantly, and broke into questioning.

"The house is dark, you say; no light anywhere?"

"Look for yourself," the FBI man said, drawing back the curtain of the armored car.

"You are right," I told him, bewildered. "Not a sign of a light anywhere. The electricity must have failed."

"The electric signals at the gate worked," he said, and that stopped me short for an instant. But before I could propound another theory there was a flurry at the front of the car.

"The guard says it's all right for this woman to see you, Mis' Graham," Gus said.

I knew Gus would get around to pronouncing the woman's name in another minute, and I slipped my feet into my shoes, smoothed my hair and stood up.

I was so sure that Katie was the woman Gus meant that I was startled indeed when I saw the familiar rotund comfortable figure of Mrs. Ticer getting into the car. I met her before she had taken two steps.

"Mrs. Ticer!" I said, amazement and anxiety in my voice. "Whatever has happened? Where is Katie?"

She was pumping my hand as I spoke, and I felt reassured at the warm pressure of that toil-worn hand.

"I don't wonder you're flabbergasted, Mis' Graham," she said. "It's enough to upset anyone. As for Katie, she's having a fit of hysterics up in her rooms. Jim's up there with her. I'd have offered to help, only I'm the cause of the explosion, so I thought I'd better keep out of her way and meet you. I imagine you can do something with her."

I knew what I should like to do to my tempestuous housekeeper, despite the long years of faithful service she had given me. I should have liked to select a rod, a buggy switch, and apply it to where it would do the most good. Katie often had treated me to temper tantrums of varying degrees of intensity, but never before, in her long years of service since my marriage, has she failed me, and—what is worse—my brother, in an important crisis.

Mrs. Ticer's composure, however, was something uncanny, and as I saw a little smile twinkling in the corners of her eyes, I felt my shorts rising slowly from the paddle into which her news had turned me.

"What about the dinner?" I asked.

"It's all fixed," she said, "but I don't dare to look at it for fear it'll know that I'd been fooling with her pots and pans. I've been keeping out of her way, but she knows I'm waiting to see you, and she'll slum off her out.

"But the stewed chicken is in one pan and the gravy in another in the warming oven," she went on, "and the mashed potatoes and the creamed onions and the baked squash are all cooked and seasoned and over hot water on the back of the stove. The tables are set, the apple pies are in the pantry, and there's a tossed salad in the ice box. Her biscuits are in the pans, and the oven is ready. All it takes is a switch and apply it to turn on for them. And the big coffee pot is polished and the coffee measured out ready to make.

"It won't take more than fifteen minutes to get the dinner on the table. I can do that if necessary. But I'm sorry that you've had to come, Mis'—"

"I would rather be just right where she is, if you, as the doctor, say it's best," I said, relenting. I said a prayer of thanks that Mrs. Ticer's eyes were not quick to see that I could not say my prayers because there was a lump rising between Katie and my heart, a lump made mostly of Katie's trouble, but of her jealousy, too, I'm afraid, and I was relieved when I saw my neighbor's face straighten and the twinkle give way to maximum Katie did out of her eyes.

"She's got it coming to her," she agreed, "but you mustn't let it be her, and I mustn't let you. But," she added, around the lump that was like a obstacle to talk, "what's happened before you left?"

RECREATION FILM SHOWN FOR ROTARY

Picture Based on Successful Venture in Decatur, Ill.

"Play Town, U. S. A." was the topic for Tuesday's weekly Rotary club meeting at the Hotel Harding. A film, loaned by the Marion Underwriters Association, was presented on the subject of recreation for community youth. It was based on the story of how the town of Decatur, Ill., promoted communitywide, all age, year-round recreation. It presented factual and convincing pictorial evidence of what can be done when all local public and voluntary agencies pool their resources to achieve a common objective.

Produced with the cooperation and technical advice of a score of America's outstanding professional leaders in recreation, the film illustrated the need for publicly sponsored recreation by emphasizing the harmful results caused by the lack of readily accessible facilities for all age groups. It revealed the juvenile delinquency problem and emphasized the necessity for providing adequate recreational opportunities for young people.

Guests of the club were: E. H. Huffman of Marion, B. F. Raynes of Chula Vesta, Calif., S. E. Rhein of Detroit, Mich., Art Dunhan of Cleveland, and Walter Verderber of Toledo.

Joan Walker was the Harding High school journalism class reporter.

If the United States therefore perseveres in its present policy, maintaining a steady, calm but firm pressure on the Soviets at all points, the Kremlin may be too weak in the long run to maintain the settlement they are now imposing. Then will be the time to begin negotiations for a real, not fake, agreement between the Soviet and the Western worlds.

SPEAKS ON WILD LIFE

BUCYRUS — The problem of an adequate winter cover for wild life was discussed by H. A. "Buck" Rider, commissioner of the Ohio soil conservation program at the courthouse Monday. Other fish and game conservation problems were also presented by the speaker who scored the apathetic attitude of the nation toward wasteful ravishing of natural resources. Rider also mentioned the former Bucyrus fish hatchery which is available for lease or purchase by the conservation league or by individuals.

French Designer Opens Beachwear Style Show

By International News Service

PARIS, Feb. 26 — Christian Dior's "Summershop" of bathing suits and beachwear was opened to the public today—and the celebrated French designer didn't let his audience down.

Bathing costumes are shorter than ever—with both the upper and lower sections of the two-piece ensembles considerably abbreviated.

Cotton is favored in Dior's beachwear.

A particular hit with the audience was a four piece sunsuit, called "Biarritz."

"Biarritz" features a daring two-piece bathing suit of dark green material, accompanied by a lacave skirt and bolero jacket of green and white cotton.

Ample Bohemian cotton skirts, to be worn with gaily colored jumpers also were shown.

In the dress department, Dior exhibited striking light twill frocks with spotted overall patterns, set off by a black patent leather belt.

NEW ATOM SMASHER DEVELOPED — A pilot model of their new atom smasher, "the Yale linear accelerator," is displayed at New Haven, Conn., by two of its builders: Howard L. It may prove a great aid to nuclear physics since, thanks to the "accelerator," the product has less energy loss than the cyclotron or betatron.

CARDINGTON F.F.A. TO REVIEW PROGRAM

Group Will Go on Radio Thursday Afternoon.

For National F.F.A. week, which is being observed by Future Farmers chapters throughout the country this week, the Cardington chapter gave a special radio broadcast on "Farm Safety" over station WMRN today.

The quarter hour program began at 12:30 and was heard as a part of the regular Farm and Home hour period. Officials of the chapter taking part included Wilbur Gregory, Wayne Mateer, Lawrence Philbrook, Dewey Yake and Louis Levering, and E. M. Blayney, vocational agriculture instructor of the Cardington school and F.F.A. advisor, acted in the capacity of coordinator for the broadcast.

The Cardington chapter has participated in varied activities in past months and is planning an extensive program for the remainder of the year.

Some of the activities that have been carried on are exhibiting at county and state fairs, placing three grand champions, 19 firsts and 15 seconds at the Morrow county fair and placing several steers at the state fair and in the Columbus junior livestock and sale. A chapter leadership booth placed first at the state fair.

For the remainder of the school year the chapter plans to participate in parliamentary procedure and public speaking contests, sponsor the annual parent and son banquet, participate in F.F.A. broadcasts and participate in county, district and state judging contests.

Your Good Health

If Hands Feel Numb, Tingling

I receive numerous inquiries about the cause of numbness and tingling of the hands. My answer is always the same—that it is necessary to consult a physician because there are so many different conditions which can produce these symptoms.

That is perfectly true, and yet these sensations of numbness and tingling usually mean that the nerves serving the hand are affected. For example, circulation to the nerves, which like every other bodily tissue require their quota of blood, may be disturbed. The symptoms will be the same whether the blocking occurs in the hand itself, in the arm, or at the point where the nerves leave the spinal cord.

Then, too, there may be disturbances around the shoulder joint, such as arthritis or inflammation of the joint, which produce symptoms of this type.

Recently, it has been noted that when persons do unusual work that requires repeated backward bending of the wrist, inflammation of the nerves may occur due to pressure on them by ligaments holding the wrist bones together.

Usually, the first symptoms, in such cases, are burning and tingling sensations. The discomfort may be severe enough to wake the patient up at night. Certain of the muscles in the hand may become weak. The patient loses some of the sense of touch.

As time passes, the pain in the hand becomes less, but the patient is awkward in the handling of small objects with the thumb and fingers. One or both hands may be affected, depending upon the type of work the patient does.

One patient studied was a woman 49 years of age, who, during the war, had to do a great deal of unaccustomed heavy housework. The symptoms of numbness, tingling, and burning pain in the hand had persisted for about three years. The pain did not extend above the wrist. After about two years, the muscles at the base of the thumb became wasted and weak. The pain was worse at night and was aggravated by the carrying of heavy objects with the hands.

It would appear that in most cases this condition can be quickly relieved by means of a simple operation in which the ligaments on one of the nerves running to the hands are cut. Following the operation, pain is immediately relieved, and the patient gradually regains the sense of touch and muscle power.

Questions and Answers

F. E.: When I get cold or have been out in the cold, exposed parts of my body become hot as fire. What would cause this condition? Also, white raised blotches form.

Answer: From the description you give, it would appear probable that you have an an allergy or sensitivity to cold. A condition of this type may be treated with such preparations as benadryl or pyribenazmine. Careful study by your physician would be necessary in order to make sure of what condition is present.

Three Draw Sentences In Juvenile Court

Huge Diesel Fuel Storage Tank Being Built From "Inside Out" in Marion's Erie Yards

By SCOTT McMURRAY

Heard the story of the man who built the big tank from the inside out? Well, he didn't have to tear the house down to get the tank out. He was just ahead of his time. The old story of a method being employed by the Teleweld Co. of Cincinnati, contractors building an 850,000-gallon diesel fuel storage tank for the Erie railroad just west of the diesel locomotive repair shops at the Marion Erie yards.

The tank is actually being built from the inside out. Here is how Erie's division engineer explained the job:

"It is not a new one. We are building a 1,000,000 gallon reconstruction tank located at Hornellsville, Ind. used to be one. It was dismantled, shipped to Marion in sections and here Teleweld began work for reconstruction of the 850,000 gallon tank.

Tank "Farm" Explained

Some portions of the plates from the tank were reduced in size to eliminate the rivet holes remaining from the former construction. While this was being done the "farm" to contain the tank was built. A tank "farm" is a basin excavated to contain the tank. Earth removed from the excavation for the base of the tank, plus additional fill dirt is used to build earthen walls raised several feet above the base level of the tank and far enough from the tank to form a basin with a capacity of twice the maximum capacity of the tank. In case of fire or other hazard the tank could be dumped into its farm from emergency valves and the hazard of explosion minimized.

"The base of this tank is a thick foundation of crushed stone which supports the tank and is to keep it from settling. On this base was laid the steel bottom plates of the tank. A 150-ton truck was then driven on this floor of the tank. This truck resembles a wreck truck for automobiles and is equipped with a power take-off driven crane which is being used to lift the side plates of the tank into place for welding. When the roof of the tank is installed the truck crane will place the heavy steel beams which support the top of the tank. When all the plates are in place and the tank is completed, then a hole will be cut in the side of the tank, the truck driven out, and the plates cut for the exit hole re-welded into place.

For Diesel Service

"The finished tank will hold 850,000 gallons of diesel oil to fuel Erie locomotives passing through Marion. This fuel oil will occupy 105,000 cubic feet of space when the tank is completely full. Dimensions of the finished tank will be: diameter 70 feet, height 30 feet, and circumference 220 feet. Plates used in its construction vary in thickness but their average will be one-half inch. Butt welding is the method being used to form the tank. Pipes serving the tank are also being installed by the Teeweld Co.

Construction time was originally estimated at three weeks but because of the recent cold wave six weeks will be required to finish the job. March 15 is the expected date of completion, barring unforeseen circumstances."

The tank here and a similar one being constructed at Susquehanna, Pa. are a line with a new policy of the Erie system which calls for increased storage of diesel fuel oil to meet the demands of the growing fleet of diesel locomotives in service on the Erie lines, Mr. Parsons said.

Wright Brothers 1905 Plane To Be Restored

By The United Press

DAYTON, Feb. 26—An airplane flown in 1905 by the Wright Brothers in experimental work is being restored and will be put on public exhibition at Carillon Park, south of Dayton, it was announced today.

E. A. Deeds, chairman of the National Cash Register Co. board said plans for the restoration were completed about a year ago. The late Orville Wright supplied full specifications for many parts and participated in the reconstruction plans.

Deeds said the plane was second only to the original plane flown at Kitty Hawk, N. C. in historical significance. The craft represented a substantial practical advance over previous models.

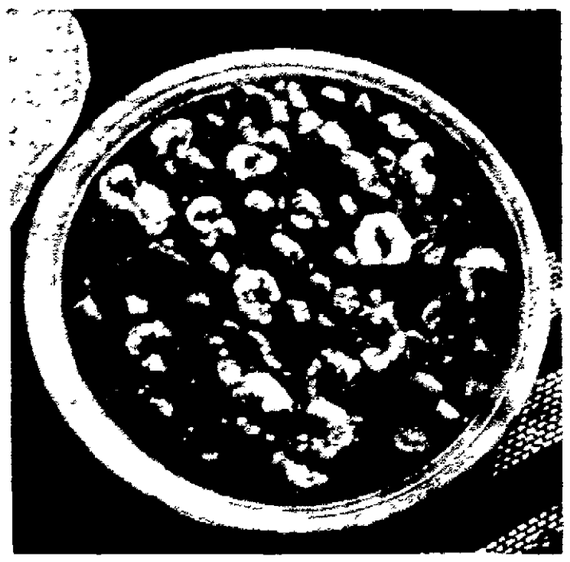
Creole Shrimp for Lent



CREOLE SHRIMP . . As spicy as you like it.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

[illegible] one of those basic recipes [illegible] can be varied [illegible] for Lenten menus. [illegible] Cooked with tomatoes [illegible] can make a very satisfactory main dish at a reasonable cost. Some of the spicy vegetable herbs are teamed [illegible] tomato sauce—sometimes [illegible] as Creole, sometimes Spanish.

The nice thing about the Shrimp Creole that follows is that [illegible] you don't like shrimp, [illegible] Cooked with tomatoes and [illegible] good meaty fish [illegible] add more of it or [illegible] of it. Or a can of [illegible] tomato dishes. And if you are [illegible] you know that basil [illegible] for the tomato and you can vary the flavor with these. Just for fun, I went through the [illegible] on the shelves and listed the seasonings that shrimp creole recipes called for. Here are some of the ones I haven't mentioned—and the amounts in each recipe. Take your pick: Bakers Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, Tabasco sauce, catsup, cloves, chili sauce and thyme.

Although the amounts of celery and green pepper called for [illegible] good flavor to this dish you may add a whole onion, in thin rings—if you like—to stretch the dish.

The other night I made the Creole Shrimp recipe for guests just as it is given here.

For the first course I used fresh grapefruit segments, four to a sherbet glass and then filled each glass with chilled grape juice. It was an attractive-looking and refreshing starter. As often happens impromptu ideas, simple and quick to achieve, turn out well. Canned grapefruit segments could have been used instead of the fresh—and every well-stocked emergency shelf should hold them. Their production in both 1946 and '47 was the largest on record and so there are substantial stocks on hand. It's a good fruit to buy and serve from the point of view of both economy and nutrition.

Next on the menu came the shrimp creole on a mound of rice. With it not oatmeal muffins.

After that an enormous bowl of romaine, thin slices of avocado, radishes, celery and cucumber and a salad dressing of tarragon vinegar, olive oil, salt, freshly ground pepper, paprika, mustard and a dash of sugar. The salad bowl sounds luxurious, I know, but it wasn't, since judicious shopping had bought the vegetables most reasonably.

For dessert we had a velvety butter pecan ice cream which comes packaged. Any number of less expensive desserts would have made a good ending. Applesauce and gingerbread, for instance, or an economical fruit whip.

Creole Shrimp

3 tablespoons fat, ¼ cup chopped onion, 2 tablespoons finely diced green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped celery, 1 clove garlic, minced, 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon chili powder, dash of cayenne, 1 bay leaf, 1 sprig parsley, if desired, ½ cup water, 1 No 2 can (1 pound 2 ounces to 1 pound 4 ounces) tomatoes (2¼ to 2½ cups), 1 5-ounce can shrimp.

Heat fat. Saute onion, green pepper, celery and garlic in hot fat over medium heat until partly soft, about 5 mins. Add flour and mix until vegetables are well-coated with it. Reduce heat. Add salt, chili powder, cayenne, bay leaf, parsley (if used), water and tomatoes and mix well. Increase heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Simmer over low heat for 15 mins., stirring a few times to develop flavor. Remove bay leaf and parsley if desired. Add shrimp which have been drained and rinsed in cold water; mix well. Simmer 5 mins. longer or until shrimp are heated through. Serve hot with rice. 4 to 5 servings.

The extensive canal systems of Europe tended to retard early railway development because they had already provided a cheap transport system and the necessary bridges added to the costs of railway construction.

I don't get excited very easy but one of these days I'm going to loose my head.

ELECTRIC SHOW TO COME HERE

Shovel Co. Foremen's Club To Sponsor House of Magic March 5 and 6.

The General Electric company's "House of Magic," a traveling science show which has been seen by more than 12,000,000 persons in the last 13 years, will be presented at Central Junior High school auditorium Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6, under the auspices of the Foreman's club of the Marion Power Shovel Co.

Three performances will be given—Friday, March 5, for junior high school and high school pupils. Harding High pupils will see the one-and-a-half hour show at 10:30 a. m.. Central Junior High is scheduled for 1:15 p. m., and Junior High for 2:45 p. m.

The approximately 160 members of the Shovel Co.'s Foremen's club and their guests will attend the single showing scheduled for Saturday, March 6, at 7:30 p. m.

Several new features have been added to the General Electric show since it last appeared in Marion seven years ago in The Star auditorium. Highlights of the 1948 show include: a man shaking hands with his own shadow, visible sound and audible light, paper which explodes, lighting an electric light with a match and sending sound across the stage on a light beam.

Each of these demonstrations involves the application of modern scientific facts and principles. Many of the show's features originally were phases of experimentation in the General Electric research laboratory at Schenectady, N. Y.

In charge of the "House of Magic" is William A. Giesing, who draws upon his talents as a trained electrical engineer and experienced magician to make the show entertaining as well as educational.

The "Magic Show," which is now entering its fourteenth season, attracted more than 2,500,000 persons at the New York World's Fair alone. During World War II it was presented before 1,200,000 service men and women at camps throughout the country.

Handling arrangements for the local presentation of the show are Joe Johnson, president of the Shovel Foremen's club and Jack Weis, program chairman.

Ohio's "First Lady" To Visit Crawford Co.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—Ohio's new "first lady" will make her first visit to Crawford county, March 8, when she will be a guest with Governor Thomas J. Herbert at the Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the Crawford County Women's Republican club.

The rally will take place in North Robinson school and ticket will be limited to 300.

Mrs. W. W. Wheatcraft of Galion, Eighth district committeewoman, is arranging the rally at which several other state officials will be guests.

DETAILS OF BONUS PAYMENT STUDIED

Veterans Group Represented at Meeting Here.

Detailed information concerning the Ohio Veterans bonus was given by Paul Derson of the Ohio State Sinking Fund Commission to about 50 members of the various veterans organizations in Marion county and vicinity at an informal meeting Wednesday night. The meeting was held at the clubrooms of Marion GI Post No. 584, American Legion, at the rear of the Midway Restaurant and veterans were present from Waldo, Prospect, LaRue, Cardington and Marion.

Sample forms of Bonus Application Form No. 1 were read by the group and a general discussion followed.

Plans are being made by Marion GI Post to make available to all veterans on Monday, March 1, at the clubrooms a number of typewriters and typists, plus a notary public.

Mr. Derson, in his discussion of the Bonus, emphasized the following points:

1. Read the statutory requirements and general instructions carefully.

2. If there is any doubt regarding proof of residence, supply sworn statements to the Commission when filing application.

3. List all the different serial or service numbers that you have had.

4. Spell out month when listing dates of service—do not use all numbers.

5. Only penal time spent in confinment will count as actual lost time.

6. Minor errors can be corrected and initialed by notary.

7. It is suggested that Navy, Coast Guard, and Marine veterans supply a sworn statement of their sea duty if it is not listed on their discharge, and the information cannot be obtained from the Navy.

8. Any additional information or necessary forms that you may find necessary can be obtained by writing, Army: Demobilized Personnel Records Branch, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Missouri; Navy: 9th Naval District, Great Lakes, Illinois, Attn: Civil Re-adjustment Section.

In case a veteran has lost his original discharge papers, forms to be used when presenting "Discharge form in lieu of Original Discharge", may be obtained at the veterans county service office, the American Red Cross office, and the Veterans Administration office.

Mr. Derson stated that forms for next of kin of deceased veterans must contact C. W. Goble, Director World War II Compensation Fund, 293 East Long street, Columbus 15, Ohio, to obtain Bonus Application form No. 2. He suggested that they notify the Commission of their relationship at the time.

It was suggested by John Schwartz that those who file bonus application Form No. 2 contact the county service officer or Red Cross office when they prepare it.

HOSPITAL CLOSING SEEN

By The Associated Press

CHARDON, O., Feb. 26—"Unless some sort of miracle happens" Chardon's only hospital will close July 1 for lack of money, Geauga County Health Commissioner Walter C. Corey reported today. Voters here have twice voted down a bond issue to finance construction of a county hospital, he said, while Corey hospital has stumbled along on dwindling funds. Deciding public subscription would yield too small a return for what is needed, the commissioner, 10 business leaders and Geauga physicians feel Corey will have to close.

INCOME TAX TIME

Instructions on Short Form Tax Return; How To Use It

[illegible] tax

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb 26—Who can use the 1040 short form—and how—in filing his 1947 income tax return?

You can use it if your total income from any source, was under $5 000 (If it was $5 000 or more, you must use the long form)

That form 1040—a four-page form—can be used as a short or long form

With the short one you don't figure your tax You find it in a table on the back You must figure it when you use the long-form

James Marlow

If you can use form W-2, the withholding receipt, don't waste time with the 1040 short-form

It's for people who can't use form W-2, like landlords or professional men from whose income little or no tax was withheld in 1947

Under-$5,000 people will save money by using the long-form if their deductible expenses were more than 10 per cent of their income

This is why

Everyone using the 1040 short-form automatically is allowed 10 per cent off for deductible expenses, like medical bills or charitable contributions

Easy Process

You just get it You don't have to account for it You don't itemize your deductions The 10 per cent deduction already has been allowed in the tax table you use in making a return on the short-form

If your deductible expenses were more than 10 per cent, you can claim the full amount by using the long-form When you use it, though, you'll have to prove your expenses by itemizing them

Husbands and wives, if their combined income was under $5 000, can file separately or jointly on the short-form.

If their combined income was $5,000 or more, but individually less, they can't file jointly on the short-form They can file separately on it, or jointly on the long-form

Using the short-form is easy Start at the top and work your way down, answering the questions as you go

Most people will need only page 1 If you have income from pensions or annuities, you'll use the top of page 2 also

Typical Procedure

Here's an example of how to fill out the short-form

You're married, with one child Your 1947 income from salary was $4,000 You had other income of $200 from interest and $300 from dividends. Your wife had no income.

Starting from the top, write your name, address, social security number Then list yourself, wife and child as exemptions, since they were dependent on you

(You always get a $500 exemption for yourself and $500 for each dependent That means $500 for each exemption knocked off your income before it is taxable)

Then answer the other questions step by step Your employer's name and address, your $4 000 salary your $200 from interest, your $300 from dividends Adding it, your total income was $4,500

(If you had more than one employer list each one with his address and the amount of money he paid you)

Now turn to the tax-table on page 4 Since you had three exemptions, look down the third column opposite $4 500, your total income You find your tax is $500, That's your total tax for 1947.

Turn back to page 1, line 7, write that $500 tax That's the tax not only on your $4,000 salary but also on your $200 in interest $300 in dividends

But in 1947 the boss withheld $406 tax from your $4,000 salary Write that $406 on line 8 (a)

Subtract and on line 9 write the difference — $94 — between the total $500 tax owed and the $406 tax withheld So you still owe $94 tax.

Don't Forget the $94

Sign page 1 tear it off the 1040 long-form, and turn it into the revenue collector. Be sure you send the $94 with it

Some people will find too much tax was withheld from them in 1947 Then the collector owes you a refund On line 10 list the amount of refund owed you

Below line 10 make a check mark to show whether you want cash (by checking refund) or credit on your 1948 tax

When you find you don't owe any more tax than was withheld just file the return If any refund is due you you'll get it

Next The long-form and how to use it

OLDEST MAN IN THE BIBLE DIED BEFORE HIS FATHER!

How could Methuselah be the oldest man in the Bible, and yet die before his father? The explanation is simple. Methuselah was the son of Enoch, of whom it is written "By faith Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and he was not found, because God translated him"

FIGURES released today by the Howe News Bureau indicate the Zanesville Dodgers nosed the Marion Cubs out of first place in the Ohio State league by virtue of their superior mound staff . . . The Dodgers tied the Cubs for first place in fielding honors with a .947 percentage, but were fifth in team batting average with a .267 mark . . . The Cubs batted .271 for third place . . . But on the mound, the Dodgers took the Cubs . . . Four pitchers of their regular staff ended in the top eight places in earned run averages led by Sanford Lambert, who allowed an average 2.51 earned runs per nine-inning game and won 23 for the Zanesville diamondmen . . . Anderson won 15, Sieradski 13 and Haran six for the Dodgers . . . The collective earned run average of the regular Zanesville pitchers was 3.68, while the regular Cub twirlers allowed an average 4.33 . . . That's about two-thirds of a run a game more than the Dodgers, which probably accounts for the fact that Zanesville won ten more games than the locals.

THE CUBS collected the most hits in the league, 1311, advanced to the most bases, 1701, but also left the most men stranded, 1286.

PITCHER WILLIAM ROSIN, who won eleven and lost five for the Cubs last year, said when in town over the weekend he was all set to go again with Hutchinson, Kansas. Rosin injured a finger when attempting a bunt for the Cubs late in the season. He has been strengthening his fingers this winter by squeezing a rubber ball.

* * *

RONALD HENDERSON, who pitched for the Marion baseball team in 1946 and then went on to Pocatello, Idaho, got a letter yesterday from Joe Mathes, farm director of the St. Louis Cardinals, asking him to report to Daytona Beach for spring training with the Columbus Red Birds . . . Henderson, who works at the Osgood Shovel Co., here during the winters, has been in the Card farm chain since beginning in organized baseball. The Marion club worked with the Cards in 1946 . . . His home town is Nashville, Tenn., though he stays in Marion in the off season.

Farmer Jones Wrestles Red Lyons Tonight

The Marion armory should be packed tonight for Farmer Jones returns to meet Red Lyons in the two hour main event. This will mark the Farmer's first Marion appearance in over a year. Since his last match here the Farmer went back to his farms and did some resting and then started training. Now he is back in this part of the country with fire in his eyes for some of the so called "Tough Guys" and Red Lyons is one of them.

The one hour semi-final looks very good for Bill Murray, the young Canadian who has been showing a lot of improvement, is slated to meet Stocky Neilson of Milwaukee. It has been about a year since Stocky was around but the Wrestling World knows him to be plenty tough.

The ten minute prelim at 8:30 is between Oscar O'Hara and Paul Kincaid. Prices (all taxes paid) 50c-75c and $1.00. Call 2715 after six for your reservations.—Adv.

Both Local High School Basketball Teams Wind Up Regular Play Friday Night

Harding Prexies Travel To Bellevue; Irish Meet Marysville at Delaware Gym

Tomorrow night marks the end of the regular season's schedule of 21 games for the St. Mary and 16 for the Harding High school basketball teams. The Presidents will journey to Bellevue to battle Coach Kerry Simpson's Northern Ohio league champions, while the Irish will play their final on the Delaware boards opposing Marysville's marauding Monarchs.

The Bellevue Redmen, winners of the Northern Ohio crown for the third time in the last four years are paced by six-foot four-inch Dean Todd who has averaged 11.8 points per game in 18 contests. Bucyrus, however, ranks second in the same league and the Prexies dropped them 51-46. With Jim Coss controlling rebounds and Dick Riddle maintaining a season record of 12 points a game the Prexies should tack number seven on the Redmen's list of six non-league losses. Their season record reads 12-6.

To Play in Large House

Coach Fetter's cagers won't play at home, but will be credited with a home game, since St. Mary officials negotiated for the right to play on the Delaware High school maples, thus giving up the advantage of playing on familiar Edison planks so that more fans may witness the contest. The game has generated interest beyond the limited capacity of Edison gym, and warrants the change to the 1,500 capacity Delaware auditorium where Marysville and St. Mary followers will be assured of a place to watch these two Titans of the B ranks settle their long-standing dispute. On the outcome hinges the hopes of the Irish to take a shade in the Mid-State crown, and the Monarchs to claim sole possession of it.

Coach Somerlot's courtsters will carry a 6-9 record with them to Bellevue and will be gunning for a figure a little closer to a 50-50 balance in their final outing. Although the Prexies haven't compiled an impressive win-lost column, they can start all over from scratch next week when they enter tournament competition at the Columbus fairgrounds coliseum. The drawings will be made Saturday in Columbus.

Out To Avenge Setback

St. Mary will be out to avenge an earlier season 46-45 setback at the hands of Marysville who will enter the contest on the long end of a 14-4 record, having lost to Lancaster, Columbus West (which is nothing in their disfavor), Bellefontaine and Upper Sandusky, the last two by one-point margins. Their standing is 7-0 in the Mid-State loop as compared with St. Mary's 6-1. They are sure to be tough.

On the other hand, the Irish won't enter the fray with their collective heads down, not while they show a record of 16 wins and only four reserves. They lost to Bucyrus by a single fielder, Marysville, one point, Sunbury, four, and Ashley, in their worst defeat, by seven points.

Probable starters for the Presidents are Dick Riddle and Merle Daum at forwards, Dick Thomas and Don Johnson at guards, and Jim Coss at center.

The Irish will try an innovation, shifting from a man-to-man defense to a three-out two-back zone in an effort to thwart Marysville's single pivot post offense. Dick Schuler and John Baldauf at forwards, Bob Stuber and Dan Smith at guards, and Dick Drake at the pivot will make up the starting combine for the Irish.

NELSON BURBRINK LED LOOP BATTING

Cub Catcher-Manager Hit Official .378 Average.

Nelson Burbrink, catcher-manager of the Marion Cubs last year, led the Ohio State league in batting with a .378 average, according to figures released today by the Howe News Bureau.

Jack Maisch of Lima walked off with three firsts, collecting the most hits, 194, for the most bases, 279, and walloping the most doubles, 39. Howard Florence of Muncie was high man in triples with 16 while his teammate Robert Montag nosed out the Cub's Dwight Maxhimer for the lead in home runs, 14 to 13. Howard Locke of Lima stole the most bases, 48. Edward Flower of Newark and William Scally of Springfield share honors in the runs-batted-in department with 119 each.

Muncie won the team batting average with a mark of .276 while Zanesville and Marion tied for fielding honors with a .947 percentage.

Roy Hollingshead, Cub second sacker, and John Smith, on third, led their positions in fielding with .949 and .926 percentages.

Ed Post, ace Muncie pitcher, led the moundsmen in earned runs with a low 2.02 earned runs per nine-inning game. He also worked in the most games, 41. Sanford Lambert of Zanesville won the most games, 23, and lost but eight for the best percentage, .742. He also allowed the most walks, 153, but whiffed the most batsmen, 232.

Among the outstanding performances in the league during the past season were the ten runs Burbrink drove in against Dayton May 12; the near perfect nine-inning, no-hit, no-run game, Cub pitcher Frank Smith twirled against Lima August 31, allowing only one base on balls; Thomas Sieradski's 11 game winning streak (from July 8 to Sept. 9) for Zanesville; and Howard Locke's five stolen bases for Muncie against Lima August 2.

ABC, Once a One-Man Show, Now a Million-Dollar Business

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE—The American Bowling Congress, a one-man supervisory organization only 25 years ago, today is a $1,000,000 business with some 50 fulltime employes working at top speed to serve 1,400,000 members.

The late secretary A. L. Langtry had only a small rolltop desk in his cubby-hole office a quarter-century ago, in contrast to present secretary Elmer H. Baumgarten's three full floors of an office building here.

Right now the headquarters office is humming as preparations are made for the annual ABC tournament in Detroit, scheduled to open in March for 93 days. A capacity entry of 6,880 teams already is on file and an additional 1,200 teams are on the waiting list.

Cost of the tournament, annually the season highlight for all top bowlers, has been budgeted at $284,000.

All told, some 40,000 individuals will compete at Detroit, and Baumgarten estimates another 200,000 will watch.

The ABC, without much doubt, is the largest sports body in the world, its members include bowlers from every state in the union and from Canada, Alaska, South America, Mexico, China, the Philippine Islands and scattered U. S. territorial possessions. They will pay, this year, about $400,000 in membership dues and contribute another $75,000 in subscriptions to Bowling, the national ABC magazine. Another $600,000 will come from tournament entry fees.

Six months ago the ABC brought in Frank K. Baker, a former sports writer, to assist Baumgarten in handling the secretarial work. In addition, 133 other key men are assigned such specific duties as purchasing, research, public relations, accounting and the like. Branch offices are managed by John Hilbert at New York, Charles Treuter Jr. at San Antonio, Tex., and Charles Fleming at San Francisco.

REDS SIGN ROOKIE

Southworth Says Cards Are the Team To Beat

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Feb. 23 — Manager Billy Southworth warned his Boston Braves bosses today the St. Louis Cardinals "look like the club to beat" as he prepared to shove off from his Sunbury, O., home for the tribal training camp at Bradenton, Fla.

"The Cards have pitching and everything else needed to win the National league championship," their former pennant winning manager advised Braves general manager John Quinn by telephone.

"Brooklyn is good enough to win again and the Giants will be in the thick of it if they can get additional pitching strength," Southworth continued.

Southworth also rates the Cincinnati Reds as dangerous because of their pitching strength.

Discussing his own Braves, Southworth told Quinn their pitching and catching prospects are much brighter than during the past two seasons.

It's Tourney Time in the Old, Old 10-Pin Game

By BILL MURPHY

Around the last of February and the first of March, keglers all over the country begin to shake free the winter freeze, haul out the ol' traveling bag, patch up the worn spots on bowling shoes and get set to travel far and near to compete with men and women just like themselves in the old old game of ten pins.

One spring a couple hundred years ago Rip Van Winkle rambled up a mountain side and fell into a bowling tourney that wizened little old men set down the pins so well that it sounded like thunder. And in between strikes they quenched their thirst out of mammoth stone mugs—grogg it was. Well today they call bowlers keglers and they roll with the same old gusto and spirit, though maybe they don't call the beverage grogg.

And a century or two before that Sir Francis Drake was so intent on getting a split that it took the whole Spanish Navy to get him away from the bowling green and then he was so put out to be called away from the game to fight a naval battle that he made quick work of it so as to get back to the game.

Yes, it's an old game. In ancient days stones were used for bowling balls and cones were used for pins. The game was first introduced to this country in 1732 at Bowling Green, N. Y. The first recorded match was run-off at the Knickerbocker alleys in New York in 1840, and the first general code of rules was adopted in 1875. The first recorded game played on a covered area took place in London during the twelfth century.

Bowling tournaments around the ports usually begin on a weekend and run the number of consecutive weekends necessary to complete the tournament, depending on the number of teams entered. The American Bowling Congress in Detroit is expected to run 93 days this year. It starts March 15.

And an oddity of this tour is that it is never run twice on the same alleys, new ones are built each year and later torn down and sold.

Jim Dugan's, City Furniture Mart, Buettin Sales and Marion Rapid Transit are four Marion teams listed so far to make the trip to Detroit. The tournament will be set up at the Coliseum.

Market and Lewis and Pal's Recreation are two women's teams who bowled in the Ladies' State tournament in Dayton last weekend.

Other ladies teams bowled in the North Central Ohio tournament at Tiffin.

Elks No. 1 team rolled a score of 3062 in the Lima inter-city bowling tournament last Sunday to take over second place in the tourney's standing. Eight teams from Marion participated in the team tournament with three teams getting into the money, including Jim Dugan's, Elks No. 1 and Buettin Sales. Roy Newell went in third place in singles with a score of 653. Three teams will travel to Rochester, N. Y. for the Elks national tournament which starts March 21.

Twenty-two teams from Marion are scheduled to roll in the inter-city tournament at Ashtabula which runs from Feb. 28 through May, and will have a total of 66 teams participating.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S Fullerton jr.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26—The sport that really seems to be coming along in this town which showed remarkable lack of interest in a world championship fight appears to be polo. . . . The difference, of course, is in the promotion. . . . All the things that happened in running the Willie Pep-Humberto Sierra bout probably never will be told, but we can guarantee that they shouldn't happen to a northerner in one of the Miami beach boob-traps. . . . On the other hand, the guys who stage the indoor-outdoor polo matches in the Orange Bowl seem genuinely interested in promoting interest in the game. They put out elaborate programs, bring in the best players and run the thing in big league style. . . . As a result they've averaged around 4,800 attendance over two years, hit close to 10,000 sometimes and hope to win the inter-collegiate championship with the Texas-reared U. of Miami team.

TED WILLIAMS, getting in his last few days of fishing before spring training begins, says he thinks he'll hold out next year to escape the drudgery. Anybody want to bet he won't be the first one out there with a bat, hollering for his chance to hit? . . . Ross Sobel, the golf pro, recalls when he used to get month-old American newspapers in South Africa some years ago to read about big league baseball. . . . Mickey McBride, owner of the Cleveland Browns, spends as much time in Miami as he does in Cleveland. . . . You'd think Mickey would have had enough when the Browns played the ill-fated Seahawks here, but his Coral Gables real estate holdings are one reason for coming back.

COALTOWN, one of Calumet's Kentucky Derby entries, showed more speed than his celebrated stablemate, Citation, in a workout the other day. . . . But don't let that fool you. . . . When he talks about Citation and Earl Stice's big offer for the colt, trainer Jimmy Jones laughs: "If Warren Wright can't afford to own Citation, nobody can."

Catcher Jim Hegan and Two Other Reluctant Indians Sign Up for 1948

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26—The Cleveland Indians' contract troubles were nearly ended today as catcher Jim Hegan and two other reluctant Tribesmen entered the 1948 fold.

Hegan, who returned four unsigned contracts and was branded a possible training camp holdout by Tribe President Bill Veeck, gave his verbal consent yesterday to a new contract expected to call for about $12,500.

The all-star marksman, who batted only .249 last season but was considered one of the American league's top receivers, was slated to receive a salary boost of about $4,000 over his 1947 stipend.

Other Indians who signed contracts on the eve of the training camp season were rookie southpaw Gene Bearden and veteran right-hander Les Webber. Bearden sparkled for Oakland, Calif. in the Pacific Coast league last season, while Webber was a free-lancer during 1947.

Signing of the trio left only rookie shortstop Len Ratto outside the wigwam for 1948. Ratto, drafted by the Indians from Seattle last fall, is expected to sign "without trouble," Tribe spokesmen said.

Hegan, who has been on and off the trading block several times this winter, probably will receive stiff competition from rookies Hank Ruszkowski and Joe Tipton for the No. 1 catching post, Veeck said. The Tribe also will give trials to Ray Murray and Ray Boone, former Oklahoma City catchers, during the training sessions.

BOWLING SCORES

High scores Friday night in Commercial league bowling were made by Redding in three games with a total of 593, made on scores of 214, 176, and 203, and Messenger for a single game with 221.

Steve Hanovich practically burned the Palace down last night, he was that hot. He rolled a score of 277 to break the previous high record held by Lou Burdell of 276. Third high single for the season was made by Homer Little who hit 275. Independent league high in series was rolled by Mull, on scores of 192, 214, 194, for a 600 total, no simple trick in itself. Steve made 133 and 147 in his other two games for a total of 557.

Bowlers in the City league at the Marion Rec. were led by Haynes in both series and single games. He rolled 549 in series competition on scores of 148, 235, 166; the second game being good for single high. Hart, Owens and Swartz rolled games of 528, 502, and 522 respectively.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Pensions have been boosted for veterans of the Indian wars unless they happen to be Indians.

* * *

The feeling was that any group of men who had passed social security age were entitled to a small bonus for fooling the statisticians.

* * *

Under the new code, social security pays off at 65 and Indian fighting at 85. . . . Veterans of the last conflict can expect to be well taken care of at 190.

* * *

But the Indians are the only people who ever lost a war to us and didn't make a hundred per cent profit on it in future trading.

* * *

This comes of sending out ambassadors with glass beads instead of tail coats.

At least when the Indians fought a war it came to definite end, which is more than the UN has accomplished.

The Indians sat down with their late enemies and smoked the pipe of peace. . . . At the UN the signs still read "No Smoking."
